Many changes were made to Clearwater High School and other Pinellas County Schools. One of the biggest topics of conversation in the beginning of the year was the updated dress code. Changes that affected most CHS students were the banning of flip-flops, hats and scarfs. Deans became coed along with P.E. classes. Another unwelcome change was the return of mandatory exams. We were all treated as equals under the Code of Student Conduct, which contained all this information and became our "bible."

Our school began renovations during the summer. Jack White Stadium was livened up when the Alumni Association painted it red and gray and flags were installed along the top of the wall. Ramps replaced just about every stair in the school to aid in the transportation of the handicapped. The bus loading area also found a new home along the south side of F-wing. The dressing room-rest rooms at the pool were finished and a new parking area paved adjacent to them. And for months the painters were everywhere, painting everything that didn't move — except other painters "on break."

Code Created A Controversy

Students seemed to be independent when it came to after-school hours. Many worked to support The Car while some just worked for extra money. Others had hours of practice for band, Tornadoettes, athletics or drama. A myriad of performers came through the Bay area with their music. Some of them were Peter Frampton, Kansas, Doobie Brothers, Jethro Tull, and Heart. Lynyrd Skynyrd performed at St. Petersburg's Bayfront Center just four days prior to the band's fatal airplane crash. Other tragic headlines told us of the deaths of the King of Rock, Elvis Presley, at the age of 42 and the venerable Bing Crosby.

Weekends were filled with trying to get a tan, picnics, or catching up on homework. The most popular question of the year was "Have you heard of any parties this weekend?" McDonalds remained the popular meeting spot for many.

As Clearwater continued to grow through 1977-78, many new proposals received public attention of the city. Court Street became State Road 60 as Cleveland Street was to be turned into a downtown mall. The referendum on a new civic center and library was defeated, but the need continues and the issue was far from dead.

The Orange Peel Disco opened its doors to the public, while Jr.'s closed theirs. Waterslide World and Waterboggan began doing a slick bit of business.

Heritage Park in Seminole opened its historical grounds which included the McMullen Log Cabin and the House of Seven Gables, both moved from Clearwater.

The Coast Guard established a new rescue base on Sand Key while the beach was made a county park.

Tornadoes' Spirit Soared

While parents and school administrators talked about curricular "back to basics," students experienced a resurgence of old fashioned school spirit, as they became involved in clubs, money-making projects, and sporting events. A unity evolved with everyone working to uphold Tornado Pride. Clubs took time out from selling buttons, candy, and ribbons to initiate new members. Carwashes were a main source of profit for all kinds of groups and many Saturdays meant washing an endless line of cars.

Many seniors spent weekends visiting colleges or taking SAT tests. Applications had to be filled out and plans made. Junior College lured many, while others chose to go to technical schools or begin working full time.

Nevertheless, we all became apprehensive about our futures. While nearing the end of our years in high school, many people feared yet anticipated what lay ahead. We were all in the same boat for 13 years, but yet so different. Soon we would scatter across the country but never to experience again something as unique as our own school.

NHS Chapte
Revived Tutorin

National Honor Society adopted a new policy for membership. Applications were distributed to those who fit the grade-point average criteria, 3.7 for juniors and 3.5 for seniors. Teacher recommendations were not needed.

Members were inducted in their traditional candlelight ceremony. Gubernatorial candidate Jack Eckerd was the guest speaker. State Senator Don Chamberlin also spoke at a NHS meeting. The Society held a progressive dinner and planned a roller skating party and tubing excursion. Members instituted a tutoring program as a school project.

Quill & Scroll Honored Journalists

During strategy meetings, Quill and Scroll members mapped out their plan of attack for the year. Under President Alice Harra, the chapter decided to hold a used records, books and tapes sale to raise money for a color cassette-video tape machine for the English department. Shari Moore kept records as Secretary-Treasurer. Gary Stere was Vice President. The "Pub picnic" with the competition between the staffs of Aqua Clara and Clearlight was a hilarious showing of strength. A proposed water exploration, either by tubes or canoes, was planned for Spring. Advisor Thomas Pierce maintained equilibrium during flight "78."

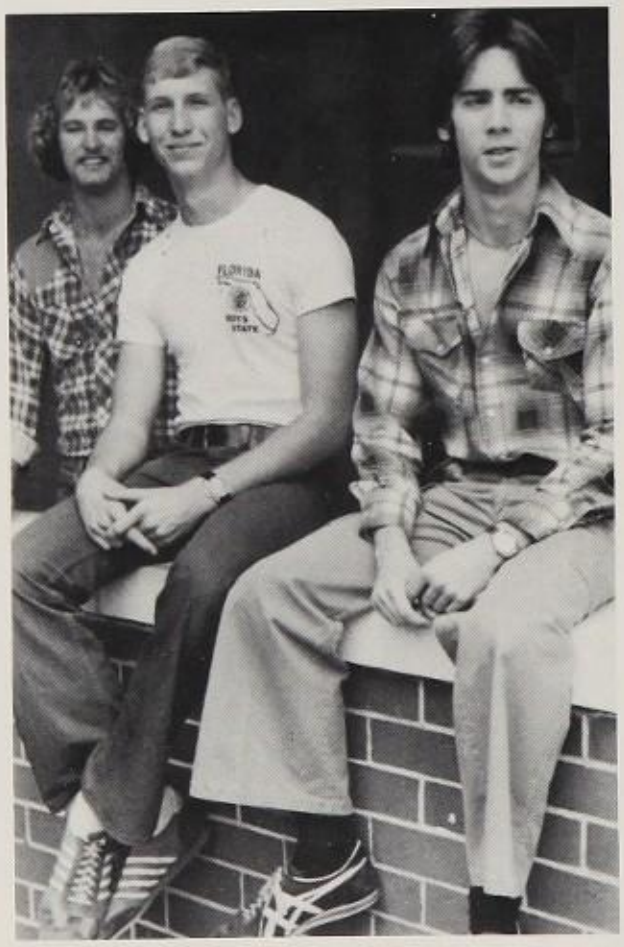
Staters Played Politics



During June and July, Tallahassee was invaded by high school juniors partaking in the American Legion Boys' and Girls' State Convention. Delegates were nominated and voted on by Florida's American History teachers.

Throughout the week of seminars, students were elected to various posts. Rob Bollenback held many posts, from commissioner to mayor to senator. Ron Brokenshire also became mayor and a house representative. Other mayoral candidates were Richard Wilson, Barry Roeper, and Alex Cook. Robert Vest and Tim Green became the citizens' "favorites," elected to police chief and tax collector, respectively. Todd Anderson and William Hancock were two of the other delegates.

Three girls composed the C.H.S. female delegation. Debbie Noah watched the budget as treasurer while Rebecca Benson and Mary Lee Hynds attained seats in the House of Representatives.

'Spaniards' Developed Fluency

During a formal candlelight ceremony, Spanish III and IV students who maintained a B average for three semesters were inducted into "La Sociedad Honararia Hispanica." The ceremony was conducted entirely in Spanish, rewarding those with academic excellence in Spanish.

Honors Touched Many

Delta Epsilon Phi consisted of students excelling in the German language by maintaining a 3.5 grade point average in German, or a 3.0 overall average. Jim Baggett, known as "Herr Baggett" to his classes, sponsored the Society.

Three Tornado stage and concert band members were commended for their performances. Paul Buczinski was chosen for the All-State concert band and All-County stage band for trombone. All-County concert band also included Jamie Steffens, for trombone, and Sanfield Forseth, for tuba, in their 1978 honors.

Students Received Merit

Five Clearwater High Students qualified as National Merit Semi-Finalists. This honor was achieved through outstanding scores on a number of tests, beginning with the PSAT.

Monthly, the Kiwanis Club selects a Clearwater High School student as "Citizen of the Month." Among those chosen are Brad Badger, Debbie Noah, Barbara Faulkenberry, Laurie Clyburn, Todd Anderson and Stephanie Becker.

MJROTC Acquired Recognition

MJROTC had many honors given to their unit this year. Barry Roeper received the Reserve Association Medal, the highest reward a cadet can achieve. John Williams was awarded the Military Order of World War Medals, Sandy Johnson the Sons of American Revolution Medal and Michelle Gross the Sojourner's Medal. The Women's Marines Association selected Barbara Fields for their yearly award. Three honors were given by the American Legion for Scholastic Excellence. Anna Francis won the gold, Margarette Mourna received the silver and Nicholas Paulas the bronze medal. This same association awarded gold, silver and bronze medals for Military Excellence to Robert McCall, Eric Compton, and William Pray, respectively. Mid-year graduate Paul Husted was also awarded a gold for military excellence.

Students Captured Titles As Talents Emerged

A variety of talent emerged in a score of places to win various titles and competition. From beauty queens to racquetballers to artists, C.H.S. was the home of winners. Barbara Mariani was declared Tornadoette of the year at the annual Tornadoette banquet held at her house. In a tearful ceremony at the last home basketball game of the season, Leah Englehardt, co-captain of the squad, was appointed cheerleader of the year.

Bob Phillippy captured the 17-and-under junior division during state racquetball competition. He also placed in the Open A division. Barbara Faulkenberry triumphed by taking first place in the State Racquetball Women's Division. Lori Uline was a finalist in the Junior Miss Contest for Pinellas County. Her belly dance routine for the talent portion of the competition had the judges entranced helping her come in fourth.

James Mesker and Terry Jacobsen entered their sculptures in the Scholstic Art Awards and both became "Blue Ribbon" Finalists. Barbara Batten also entered an ink study in the regional competition, receiving an honorable mention.

Clearwater athletes excelled in many diverse areas in '78. Tornadoes were found outstanding in racquetball, wrestling, swimming, football, and basketball. The CLEARWATER SUN and ST. PETERSBURG TIMES recognized outstanding athletes throughout the county in many sports. Upon becoming district champs, many Tornado basketball players looked promising to make the all-star teams, too.

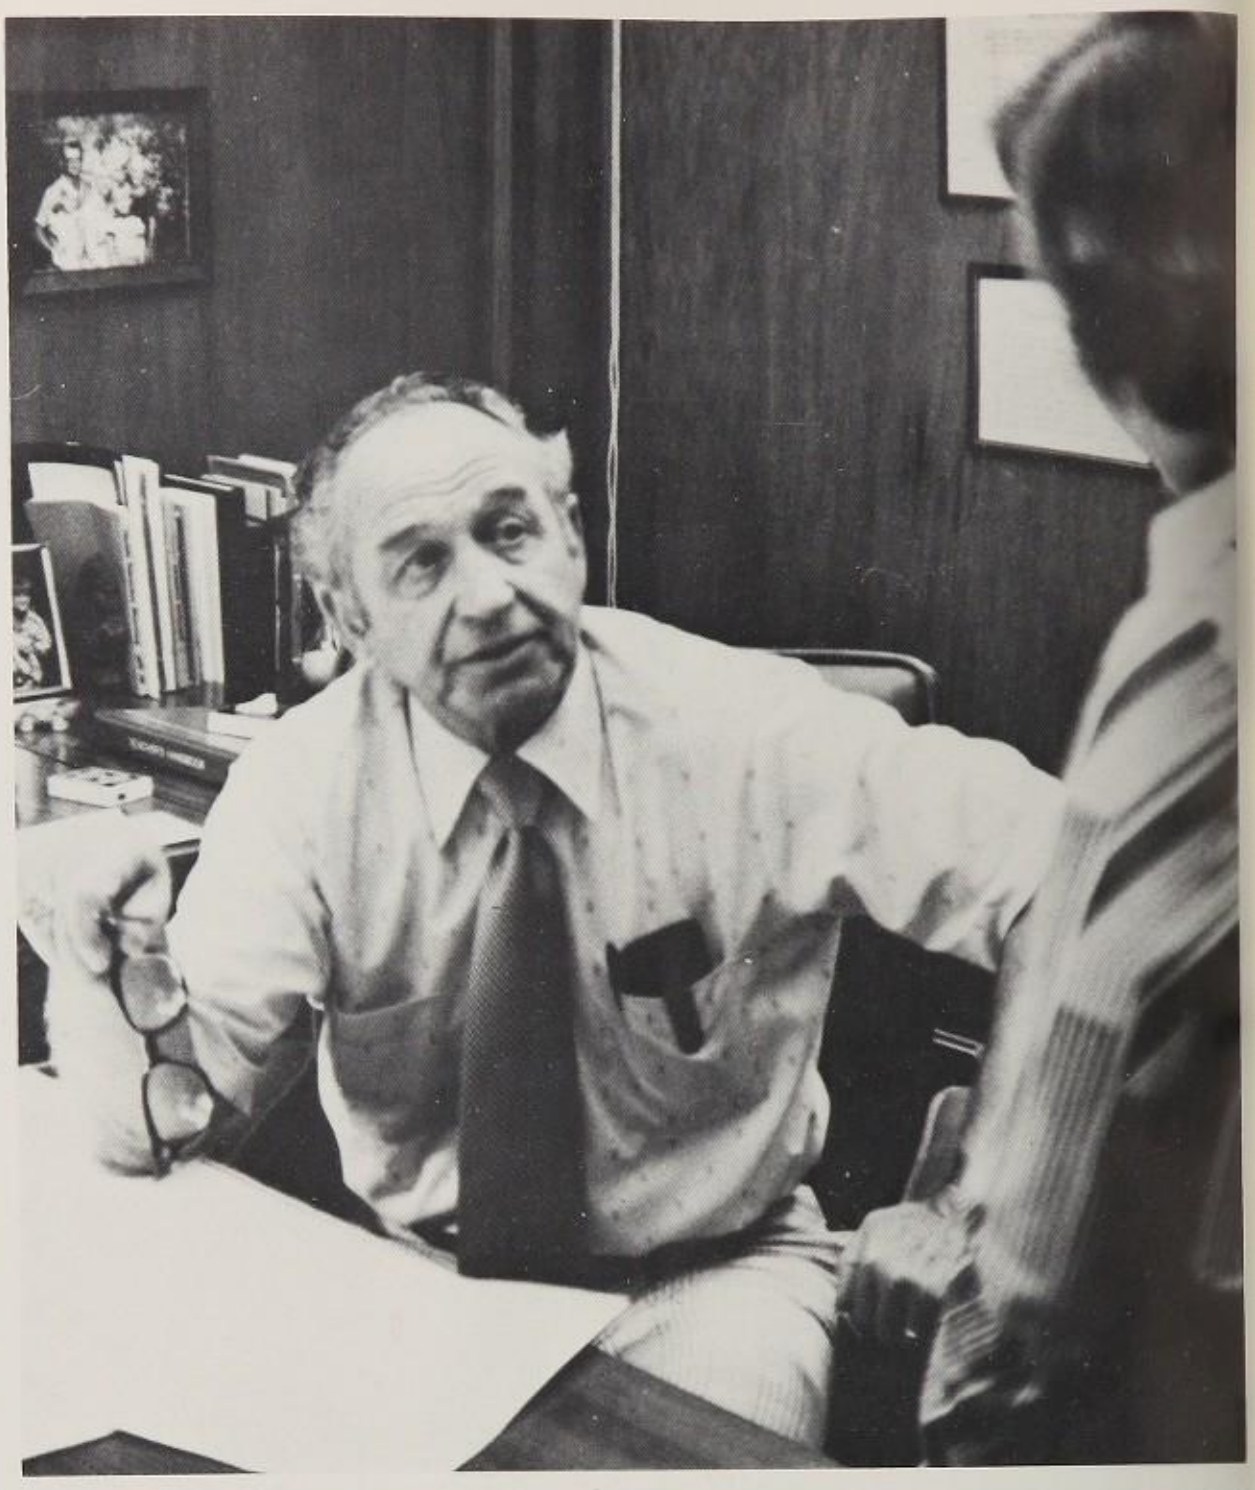
Williams Promoted Projects



Coming back strong from last year's health problems, Principal Garnett Williams was kept busy promoting school spirit and school projects. The major projects this year were the painting of the school and the new bus circle. Adding to his administrative load were the appeals of automatic F's given to those missing more than five days.

Assistants Rapped Up The Year

This year Mr. Russell Stichler, afternoon principal, celebrated his 25th year at C.H.S. Not only has he been assistant principal for C.H.S. but in his earlier years here, he taught industrial arts.

Mr. Stichler was in charge of the physical plant. Among his accomplishments were the new bus loading area and parking lots.

Assistant Principal Larry Goodbread headed up the morning session. He was on campus from 6:30 to 3:00 helping students and working on curriculum committees and extra curricular activities.

Evening Principal Art Rowland met many demands. With 9,454 students enrolled in one or more classes, he kept busy. He also worked individually advising students on which classes to take to get credits to receive a diploma.

Deans Noted Student Improvement

At the beginning of the year each student received a Student Code of Conduct manual prepared by the school board. With the new code and the five-day absentee rule, the deans noticed that the students were more disciplined and the absences decreased about fifty percent from last year. "We have noticed that grades have improved tremendously and there have been fewer failures," stated Mrs. Mulock. Less than one per cent of the student body broke rules resulting in suspension. Also, students had the option as to which dean they wanted to go to, morning deans Jerry Hyde and Pat Myers, afternoon deans Alfonse Clark and Lenore Mulock. Dean Hyde's concern for C.H.S. students showed this year when he sustained injuries during a scuffle with a night school student. He received twenty-five stitches below his left eye and eight in his arm.

Campus Police Officer James Skala become known more as a friend when Clearwater students learned how he had written a letter to Mr. Williams, claiming that C.H.S. students were the best behaved in the county. Officer Skala is a Deputy Sheriff employed by the school board. He works from seven to three preventing crime on campus.

Among Activities Director Harold Reddick's activities were coordinating and scheduling sports events, fund-raising drives, and assemblies.

He also was responsible for the eligibility list of athletes. Keeping the list is more work than it seems. This year Largo temporarily forfeited two football games because of this, but went to court and won an appeal. Mr. Reddick also handled ticket sales, auditorium rentals, sports banquets, and awards and was sponsor of the "C" club.

Registrar Ron Isackson continued to schedule classes and improve the curriculum. He also offered vocational guidance, and helped coaches find time for team practices.

Counselors Tackled Testing

Mrs. Elaine Jablonski, head of the guidance department, and the rest of the counselors had their hands full with the new state mandated literacy test. Given to all juniors, the test consisted of two parts, basic skills and functional literacy. The basic skills test included math and English. The functional literacy test measured the juniors in everyday math and language.

Pinellas County juniors did quite well: 94 per cent passed the communications skills and 70 per cent passed the mathematics skills. These were among the better scores in the state.

Students who failed the basic skills test took remedial courses and then had two more chances to pass. Those who could not pass received a certificate of attendance instead of a diploma.

Secretaries Filed Away Year

Clicks, clanks, rings, and dings of everything from typewriters to duplicators were the sounds of Clearwater's main office. Ten secretaries worked along with teachers and counselors to make CHS run smoothly. A never-ending flow of money, receipt books, and signature sheets in and out of the office kept the bookkeeper's adrenalin flowing. Head Secretary Dorthea Nee celebrated her 20th year at C.H.S. She has been employed here longer than any other office worker and many of the teaching staff.

Library Toughens Security

A new checkpoint detection system was developed in the library this year, because of last year's thefts. Two-thousand-seven-hundred books were unaccounted for, which totaled a $19,000 loss. The system works on a radio frequency. The books are specially treated and if they aren't properly checked out, an alarm is set off and the gate locks, preventing the student from leaving. There is also a new check out system, in which each student has his own library number. The system is much faster and has proved to be more efficient. Also new to the library is Mrs. Helen Spicer, a clerk for the afternoon session.

Servings Shrank At Snack Bar

With prices of the sandwiches stable at 45 cents, students continued to munch out. A few additions at the snack bar were french fries and steak hoagies. Raising the most concern was the shrinking of the cookies. Cafeteria Manager Edell Hogue was ordered by county supervisors to cut the cookie portions. Instead of giving only one large cookie, Mrs. Hogue decided to sell two smaller ones.

Head Plant Operator Jim Smart and the rest of the custodial staff helped to maintain a clean campus. Several times this year the custodians were occupied with cleaning up vandalism after rival schools trashed C.H.S.

Emphasized Basics English

Along with Department Head Catharine Henry, Frank Black, Daisy Brunson, Betty Compton, Marian Lowrie, J. P. Nelis, Joyce Parker, and Deloris Sutton taught the remedial English courses second semester. Some 283 juniors who flunked the State Assessment test had to take this course to get a second chance at the test. Mrs. Parker handled all the reading classes and the other seven teachers took the writing.

Mass Media Stressed The Visual

Two new movie cameras were purchased and broken equipment repaired so that greater emphasis could be placed on photography. Animated films and slide-type shows were some of the projects mass media students did. Tom Pierce taught mass media I first semester and Marsha Whittington taught some of the media classes second semester, as many teachers were shifted around to provide the remediation classes for those juniors who flunked the literacy test.

Returning to C.H.S. after a year maternity leave was Gaire Dristler. Amy Rice left for Colorado at mid-semester. Another addition to the English Department was secretary Donice Allen.

Classes Conquered Composition

Remedial Math Added Classes

More than 200 juniors who failed the math portion of the literacy test were required to take remedial math courses. Department head Ken Hager worked along side of Lucia Arnold, George Carswell, Alan Chancy, Robert Davis, Carl Egolf, Ann Magee, and Robert Muldrow to instill a better understanding of basic math skills. Through these teachers' efforts students will be able to pass the assessment test.

The Clearwater High School Science Department created some 2400 mad scientists and lab assistants. With 17 teachers led by William Blyshak the curriculum offered a variety of courses. For beginning Igors general science offered opportunity to learn about the metric system. Sadistic students filled the Biology and Physiology classes in order to dissect frogs and pigs. Those with hunter instincts took Marine Biology and ended up the year with quite a zoo of specimens. In Chemistry, young scientists created substances as NaCl. Formulas of length reigned in Physics and paper airplanes designed in aeronautics ruled the sky. Mr. Foster, Mr. Parker, Mrs. Schick, and Mr. Seeger's Biology classes succeeded with their fall vegetable garden at our C.H.S. Green Frog Creek Outdoor Science Lab.

CHS Represented In Capital

State Senator Don Chamberlin returned for a short time after a two year leave. Mr. Chamberlin taught civics in the afternoon session, first semester but then was transferred to Dunedin Middle School.

Added to the History Department this year were new books. Each student received his own book instead of classroom sets. Along with Department Head Ray Rilling, the social studies department strove to put the teacher-student interaction on an individual basis.

Shop Saw Needed Equipment

The Industrial Arts classes, which consisted of Wood, Metals, Electronics, and Gas Engines, received new equipment. A table saw and metal bending brake found their way to the Wood and Metal shops. Electronics acquired six new oscillioscopes. In the Gas Engines corner, four sturdy benches and a cleaning tank joined the clutter of engines.

Sterling Hays organized a pro-shop club in order to encourage students in their mechanical interests. The club, entitled Vocational Industrial Clubs of America (VICA), had ten members in its birthday year, with David Hezzen as president.

The Home Economics Department, which turned out seamstresses, tailors, and gourmet chefs, finished two up on the office. Two new sewing machines arrived to increase the thin ranks of the crafters. A few brave males tried their hands at the age old art of cooking. With sticky fingers, egg shells were picked out of runny dough as the chefs labored over their creations jealously. The department's main award was the Betty Crocker Award for the best recipe created in contest.

Working Was An Experience

In the Work-Experience program, "Students seemed to be more job oriented and less get-out-of-school-earlier oriented this year," said George McKeithen, head of the W.E. Department. Students were in school four periods then put in the remaining two plus extra hours at the jobs that Mr. McKeithen, Robert Webb, and Pauline Hess helped them find. Two credits were earned in the program by the students. Who were, Mr. Keithen observed, better behaved and motivated than in previous years. "It's very hard to be objective when a student is on the defensive, but I love 'em in spite of themselves," McKeithen added.

Keith Arnold transferred from the W.E. Department to the science department when enrollment declined.

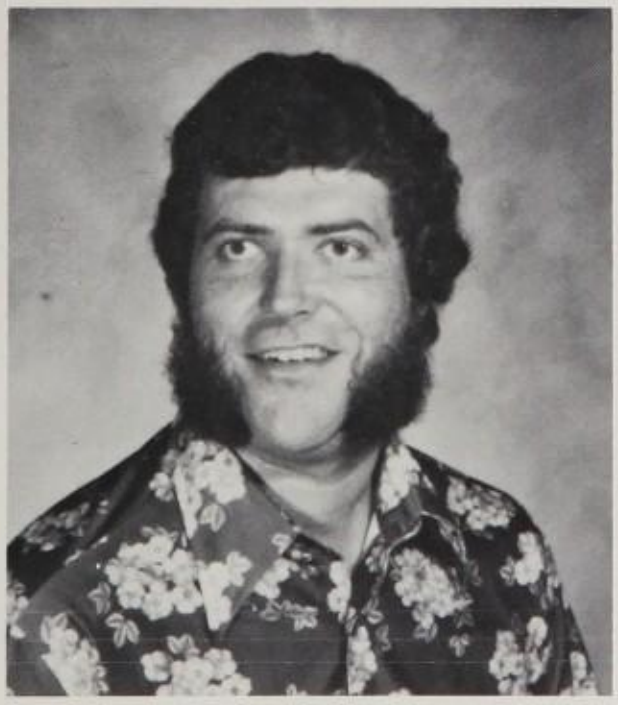
Elinor Burger and Robert Davis, advisors for the two CHS chaters of Distributive Education Clubs of America, were proud when three students came back from the District Leadership Conference in very high standing. Leslie Salling won first in Apparel and Accessories, Marcia Lyons placed third in Advertising and Services, and James Murdoch received a sixth place in General Merchandising. All three went on to compete at the state DECA Conference in March in Orlando and hoped to qualify for National competition in Washington, D.C.



Heading Cooperative Health Occupations Dianne Hernan instructed students heading for health related careers. She worked with students in class and helped them find jobs in local hospitals, clinics, medical and dentist offices. The 22 girls and three boys filled such roles as nursing assistants, volunteering for the Belleair Bluffs Fire Department and X-ray assistant. Mrs. Hernan also worked to develop a new course for juniors and seniors next year, to be called Health Service Aid.

Department Head Ivan Werkhiser and Charles Diehl emphasized individual work in bookkeeping. "I took a survey with my classes to see what they preferred. Ninety-five per cent of them liked working individually better than working in a group," Mr. Werkhiser said. Also included in the business education program were typing, shorthand, business law, and math. More electrical typewriters were purchased for the typing rooms in hopes that someday they will all have the use of electrical typewriters.

He worked with other language teachers in one of the largest foreign language departments in the state. C.H.S. had classes in six languages: Latin, Spanish, French, German, Russian, and Greek.

Conversational ability was stressed along with understanding of each language culture. The department bought more books and continued the exchange program with the school in Marburg, Germany.

Artist, Musicians Honed Talents

For the eighth consecutive year C.H.S. band rated Superior in the District Marching Competition, held in November. Don Hacker and his three bands, ninth grade, stage, and marching band performed at local parades along with half-time football games. Keeping with the pace, the Choral Department performed many concerts at school functions. For Christmas, they sang at Clearwater and Countryside Malls and rehearsed for a Spring concert in the auditorium.

New ideas got the Art Department off the ground this year. Department head Ellen Blewitt promoted the project of painting the walls located behind the art room. After getting Mr. Williams approval, five art students, Sam Brown Jr., Marti Erbs, Kurt Henderson, Chris Hinton, and Broaudio Parajon spent a total of six weeks working on the murals. The night before the Largo football game they stayed up all night protecting their work, for the outside art shows held in November and Spring. Mary Tan was an addition to the department, teaching ceramics, 3-D. and creative design.

After 26 years of football coaching, Earle Brown decided he would resign saying he, "had been around long enough." Coach Brown took the Tornadoes football team to a nine and one record this season. "I feel like I've been around long enough and I want to do some of the things I've let go in the house for the past 26 years." Mr. Brown is staying on at C.H.S. to teach P.E.

All P.E. classes were co-educational except for contact sports. The reactions to this varied, but one junior summed it up best, "I think it's great, it gives us an opportunity to compete and also have fun." Anne Balderson was added to the P.E. department and also coached the girls J.V. basketball team.

ROTC, Roeper Marched To Honors

Captain Barry Roeper was the first C.H.S. cadet to receive the Bronze Cross Award. Some 1600 cadets in seven southeastern states participate in the Marine Corps District Competition. Six awards are presented annually to MCJROTC members across the nation.

Under the leadership of Lt. Col. Ralph Moody and Sgt. Maj. Troy Hamm, the cadets received instruction in marksmanship training and basic military skills.

Working with students on an individual basis, the Specialist Department expanded their staff. Dianne Badeaux was hired to head a program called "TIPS," Teenage Information on Parenthood. Working out of the boy's clinic, Ms. Badeau answered many questions and gave much advice to students regarding parenthood. Special Education also found a new home, which was a portable next to the auditorium. Penny Collins taught Special Education and Estelle Torek helped students with speech impediments in the new building.

Sue Street worked in the Time-Out-Room counseling students, listening to problems, and just being an all around friend. She expresses the T.O.R. in different ways: "The light at the top of the stairs, No you can't jump off the balcony, The kleenex box is for girls only."

With cool sophistication the new drivers ed students experienced the joy of driving one of the elite firebirds. The school fleet of cars were donated by Carlisle Motors, Charlie Harris, and Lokey Motors.

Tornadoes Stormed Conference

The 1977 Tornado football team, as described by Coach Earle Brown, was "the best group we've ever had." Coach Brown emphasized a total team effort and guided the Tornadoes to a 9-1 record. The season was the most successful since Clearwater finished 10-0 in 1971.

Clearwater High School alumni players received a portion of the credit. During the summer, the group repainted the stadium and bought new jerseys, creating a sense of pride in the football program.

Although players have played more than one position in the past, Coach Brown enlarged the idea this year. Eight players practiced on both offensive and defensive squads because of a lack of depth caused by double sessions. Working players at two positions also prepared the team in case of injuries such as when starter Peter Pray was lost for the season with a knee injury.

Seven Tornadoes made the All-Sun Country team for '77. Six were offensive team members. Ben Gresham, Al Thomas, Scott Nicolas, Mark Wheless, Brett Miller, and Keith Sowinski. Linebacker Bruce Gentry was selected for the defensive team in spite of missing four games from a knee injury.

The Tornadoes opened the season against Boca Ciega with a 17-14 win in overtime. Jeff Davis booted the tie-breaking field goal.

Captain Scott Nicolas complained, "We took the game too lightly, but the scare brought us down to earth and we came out for the rest of the games with a different attitude."

According to Nicolas, the game with Seminole was the season's biggest obstacle. "We were up for Seminole even more that we were for Largo." The entire school got into the spirit bellowing "Whomp Warhawks!" and the team came through with a 22-9 victory.

Ken Johnson's 90-yard opening kick-off return for a touchdown started the Homecoming game against Lakewood off right. The Tornado offense took over and chalked up 42 points in the first half.

In a game in which third string players expected to see action, the Tornadoes squeaked by Gibbs. "It was tied 20-20 with 1:14 left in the game and we had the ball on our own 18. We scored in four plays. Keith Sowinski threw a 35-yard pass to Brett Miller and then a 33-yard touchdown pass to Ben Gresham," recalls Nicolas.

Largo was the only hurdle between Clearwater and the district title.

Title Hopes Fumbled To Largo

For the first time in the history of Clearwater-Largo rivalries, both teams came into the game undefeated and with the district title up for grabs. Largo, forced to forfeit two games for dressing an ineligible player, was again 9-0 after they appealed the ruling to the U.S. courts and the games were returned to their win column.

A defensive clash was expected by the Tornadoes. However, Largo played an offensive as well as a defensive game and won 41-7.

"We tried to change our game too much. We weren't keyed up enough or even ready to play as a team. Mistakes killed us. It might have been anyone's game, but Largo was better THAT NIGHT," Nicolas said.

Clearwater confronted Tampa Plant in the first annual Suncoast Bowl. The Tornadoes led 13-0 at halftime but lost the game 17-13. "We beat Plant physically, however, in the greatest defensive game we've ever played."

Jayvee Tackled Season

Their record tarnished by only one loss, the jayvee football team finished the season 7-1. Dunedin prevented a perfect season by defeating the Tornadoes 17-14. Coaches Sam Roper, Paul Niesen, and Kevin Betourne taught the jayvee team varsity fundamentals and predicted many varsity prospects for next year.

Captain Mike Hall was awarded the Spirit Award and Sam Washington, also a captain, won the Most Improved Defensive Back Award. Leonard Long was voted Most Improved Offensive Back.

MVP Jeff Ledbetter was promoted to the varsity squad for the Largo game filling in for injured back-up quarterback Chris Powers.

Freshmen Scrambled To PCC Crown

Finishing the season with a perfect 6-0 record, the baby Tornadoes clinched the Pinellas County Conference title. Coaches Frank Straner and Dennis Foster led the team and in the strongest game of the year defeated Largo 4-20. They were rewarded with the PCC title in the final game with an 18-6 victory over St. Pete High.

Outstanding players included Butch Chamberlain, Scott Miller, who was Most Valuable Offensive Player, and Gary Ingram, the defensive MVP. Charlie Benford was chosen Overall Most Valuable Player.

Individualism Dominated

Under the leadership of Coach Jim Thurston, the boys' cross country team ran to fifth place in both district and regional meets. The team came in third in the Bullfrog Creek Invitational and won the Westminister Invitational in Atlanta, beating six of the top ten Georgia teams.

Matt Farmer displayed cross country's individualism by setting personal and school records of 9:30 in the two mile and 15:21 in the three mile race. Top runners included Tim Downs and captains Jay McCann and Bob Phillippy. Matt Farmer was selected varsity MVP while Joe Browning received the jayvee award.

Girls Ruled Cross Country

1977 marked the first year of girls' cross country as a county-recognized sport. In past years, cross country was considered a stepchild of the girls' varsity track program.

Coach Pat Borowicz commented, "They're a group of hard working, dedicated girls, members of a close-knit, second family. Watching the team practice, run in meets, and seeing their fellowship with each other showed why they were successful."

Eight of the 13 members ran in district, regional and state meets. After winning the district and regionals, they battled a machine-like Hollywood-McArthur for the state title in Deland. Physically and emotionally exhausted, the girls placed second behind McArthur. Michele Dunaway and Michelle Gross ran fifth and sixth respectively and were later named All-American by national sports writers.

Michele Dunaway, Michelle Gross, Janie Hancock, Lisa Beck, and Tammy Franklin were selected for the All Suncoast Girls' Cross Country team.

Clearwater High School beat the federal court ruling to the punch by allowing a girl to compete in boys' athletics. Freshman Debbie Thomas made the boys' jayvee golf team after the newly formed girls' team folded because no one showed up for tryouts.

Golfers practiced four days a week in the spring attempting to throw a hazard at Dunedin, runner-up in last year's state meet. Clearwater Country Club donated practice rounds and served as their home course.

Coach Jim McClelland was optimistic about the season. "We'll be shooting for the Pinellas County Championship against Seminole (state champion in 1976) and Dunedin." Pinellas County has been ranked among golf's leaders for years. Coach McClelland pointed out the 1968 golf team is the only boys' team to win a state championship for C.H.S. and added, "We'd like to be the second."

C.H.S. Got A Bowl Bid

Clearwater girl bowlers rolled to the Pinellas County Northern Division title and the boys' team finished second in their league. New member Dawn Hamrick led the way for the girls by maintaining the highest average. LaRon Bacon was their captain while Steve Knight captained the boys' team.

Hi-Lan Lanes donated practice games and bowling columnist Lew Fradkin coached both girls' and boys' teams. The squads washed cars to pay for their own uniforms.

Bowlers throughout the state were victorious in most respects except in gaining official recognition. The Florida High School Activities Association still doesn't sanction bowling as a high school sport.

The wrestling team strugged with a tough season. In a sharp decline from years past, the Tornado wrestlers finished 3-7 in the conference and 7-9 in the overall season.

Captain Alex Cook who grappled his way to second in the state, was one of CHS's most consistent athletes. He placed second in districts, regionals and finally in state. He also won first in the Pinellas Park and Seminole Tournaments. Outstanding players included Chris Calderbank, Nick Koulouvaris, Tim Hobgood, Glenn Humphries, and Ed Bryan who broke his wrist with 5 matches to go disqualifying him from the playoffs.

Varsity Rebounded Regional Win

For the first time in four years, the Tornadoes failed to win the Conference crown. However, the team captured the District and then won the regional title over Tampa Hillsborough, 69-64. The victories gave Coach Jack Wilson his sixth district title in ten years and his first regional championship. Clearwater then faced last year's state 4A champion, Orlando Boone, in the Section II final.

The Tornadoes hoped to finish "23-4 with a lot of luck," Coach Wilson commented. "But what's wrong with 21-6? With your top rebounder and one of the leading scorers (co-captain Scott Nicholas) missing for 14 games, that's a great season. Injuries cost games and two were lost by two points."

Coach Wilson complained that support had been the worst he could remember and blamed this on high school sports' saturation. He also predicted that because of Title IX freshman sports would have to be eliminated to save money. "If this happened, Pinellas varsity teams would be behind other schools in experience. It would no longer be worthwhile to coach because you couldn't win."

Injuries Fouled Tornadoes

In pre-season, Coach Wilson felt it would be one of his better teams with experience, depth, and size.

The Tornadoes started by winning their own Tip-Off Tournament over Seminole. Injuries also started when Scott Nicolas strained ligaments in his ankle.

During the Roy King Tournament, Nicolas returned in the Choctawatchee win and led the team to a second place finish behind Ft. Lauderdale Nova. Greg Meader emerged during the tournament and was thought of as "the glue that held the team together." Wilson also depended upon co-captain Jim Aronson and Isaiah Singletary as the high scorers.

The season progresses with a second win over Northeast, but Meader was injured practicing for Gibbs and was lost until the last games. Noisy fans backed the team and they revenged their earlier loss to Seminole. Northeast hosted the squad in the next game and "blew a little smoke" trouncing the Tornadoes, 74-107.

The Tornadoes won nail-biting games against Lakewood and Seminole to reach the District final against Northeast. Clearwater led until Northeast tied the score in the last six minutes and it seesawed back and forth until Singletary hit a 15-footer with 55 seconds remaining. Aronson finished the Torando scoring with two foul shots.

Tampa Hillsborough fell to the Tornadoes in the Region IV championship. Singletary contributed his best effort of the season. Chris Cruder was responsible for more than his one point by breaking Tampa's full-court press to get the ball to the shooters. Wilson commented, "He's so quick it's unreal." Nicolas returned after missing the District while Aronson jammed his knee and was questionable for the Sectional.

Nicolas predicted, "If we get it all together, we might go all the way."

Jayvee Got Keyed Up

For the second straight year, the boys' jayvee basketball team claimed the conference title. With a record of 21-4, Coach Bill Mathews said, "This was a most enjoyable season . . . because of the quality of kids in our program. Not one player missed practice."

Tornadoes lost three times in their first clashes with teams whom they returned to trounce twice: Bogie, Northeast, and Dixie. They also lost to Lakeland but only on an 18-footer that swished with the buzzer.

The jayvees played their best against Dunedin with both games being cliff-hangers. In the final home game, Clearwater defeated Dunedin by a single point, 53-52. Dunedin had earlier won Clearwater's Christmas Tournament with the Tornadoes finishing third. The team almost reached 100 points to mark Coach Mathews' 100th win, downing Largo 94-33.

Junior Bill Baker led the team in shooting and rebounding. Awards were changed to Most Improved won by Jerry Leigh, Best Team Spirit won by Mike Moreau, and Unsung Hero, Leonard Long. The team also voted on a captain and chose Bill Baker.

Freshmen Gained Experience

Coach Tom Anderson described his conference champions as "the best talent ever at Clearwater High on a freshman team with a good combination of talent and speed." They were undefeated in the conference but finished with a 10-1 overall record. The loss came against Clearwater Central Catholic, 59-66, in overtime.

Carleton Scott led the scoring with a 12 point per game average and six players averaged nearly 10 points. Leading rebounders were Tony Singletary and David Stewart. Captains were chosen before each game so everyone was given the honor.

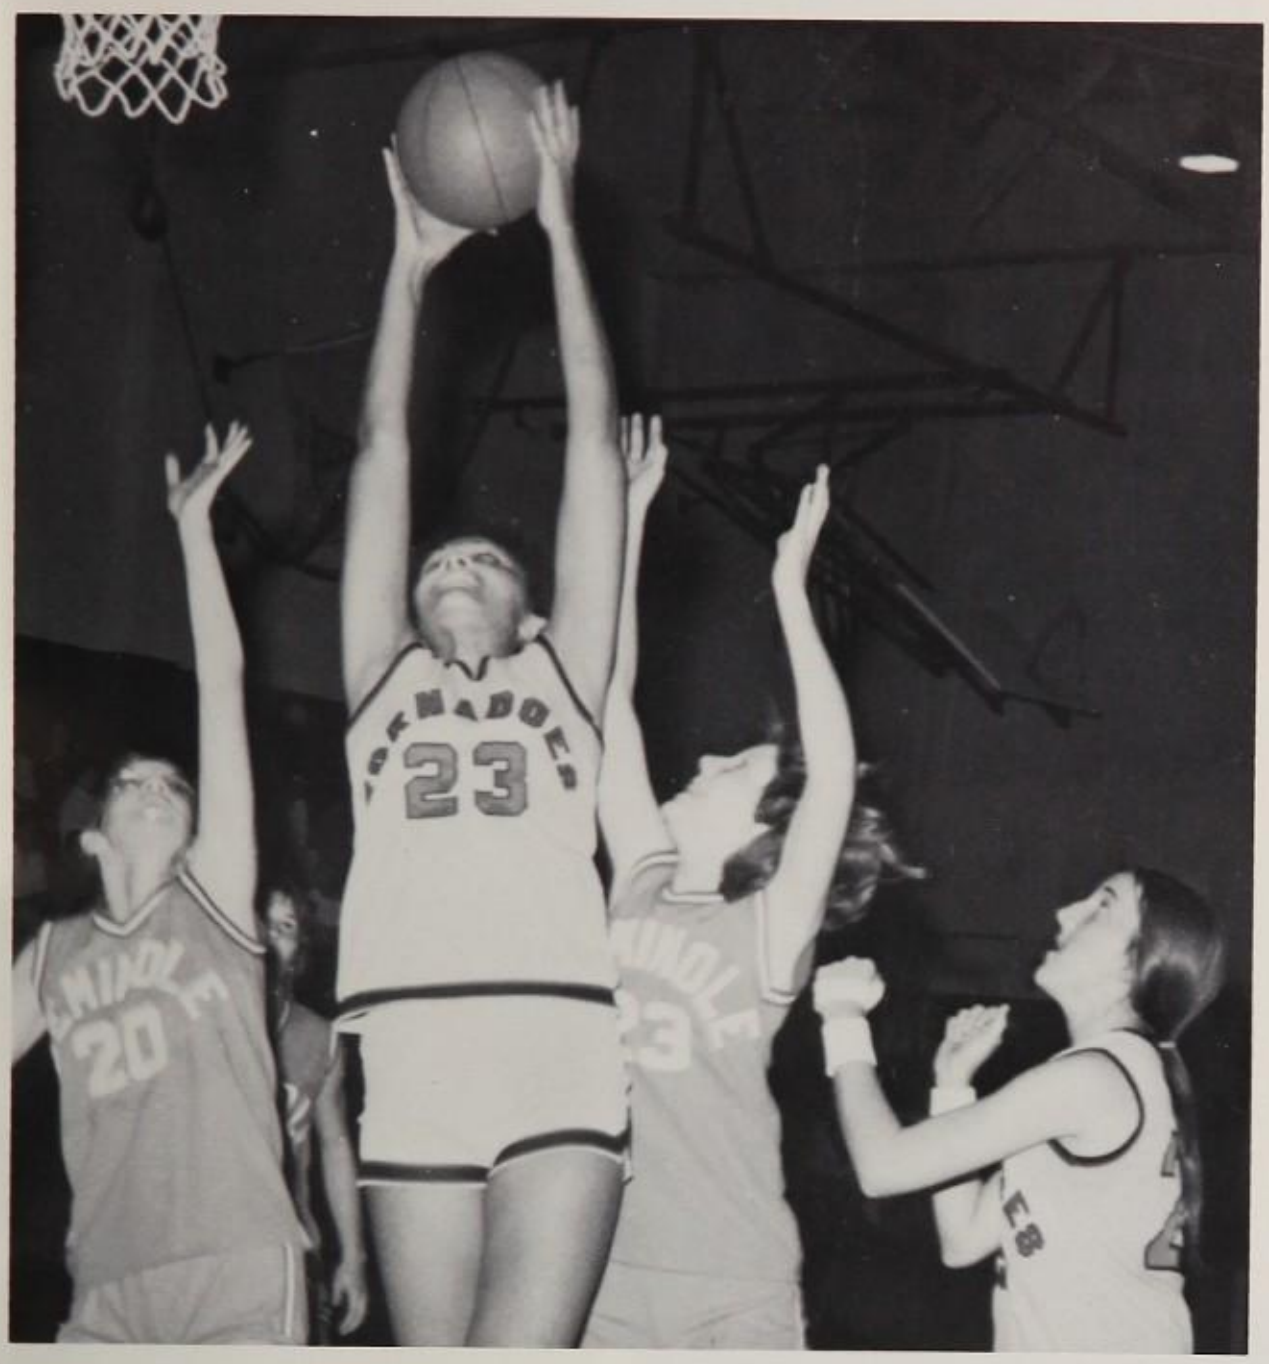
Ladies Reached New Heights



The Lady Tornadoes became the first girls' varsity squad to win 20 in the expanded 22-game season. Clearwater finished with a 17 home-game winning streak climaxed in the conference title-clincher against Seminole. They later lost to Seminole in the District final, 49-54.

The Ladies added height with the addition of 6-5 Yvonne Elliott. Coach Jim Thurston commented, "Yvonne helped us tremendously," but added, "We have no individual superstar . . . just five girls that mesh together well." Three averaged over ten points: Yvonne, Jill Strumpf, and Leslie Goodwin. During the afternoon session, the Tornadoes trounced Northeast who had beaten them by two in the first game. "We completely destroyed them. If we had played that way all the time we could have beaten anybody." Boca Ciega provided their most exciting competition with the Tornadoes winning in double overtime, 58-54.

Six of the twelve graduated this year. Coach Thurston expected to see half of them playing college ball.

Girls Jayvee Into Third Tipped Off

Basketball expanded to include a girls' jayvee program for interschool competition and for seasoning future varsity talent.

Shaping the first-year squad was a first-year coach, Anne Balderson. Coach Balderson, captain of the University of Wisconsin's 1971-72 women's basketball teams, emphasized fundamental skills for the inexperienced girls.

The ten freshmen and four sophomores played their best games against Pinellas Park. In one outing, the team so inhibited the Patriots that all but four players fouled out leaving them to play the last period one player short. The girls finished the season in third place.

Girls And Boys Combined For Practice

Although the boys' and girls' tennis teams were separate and played their matches apart, they combined for practices and strategy sessions. Two hours a day, five days a week, they practiced together allowing the better girls to improve by challenging the boys. Coach "Big John" Williams, pro at McMullen-Booth Complex, took over both teams.

The girls' squad was weakened when Beth Allison, the county's number one player, fractured her leg, and the girls' hopes of finishing higher than third faded. Coach Williams explained, "Our remaining girls are good players; but they are inexperienced and shallow in depth." Helen Hershfelt, number five last year, moved into number one position and held up under the pressure. He expected Allison to play in the district tournament.

The boys' squad abounded with youth and depth as eight to ten players fought for the top five positions. "We have a lot of competition which created a healthy atmosphere. It's unusual to have many players of that high quality." The loss of junior Mitch McFrederick who moved to Australia to pursue his tennis career was minimal as Coach Williams depended on depth to carry through. Against Gibbs, every match was won by the Tornadoes 6-0, 6-0.

Despite losing three members of the 1977 state champion track team to graduation, Coach Pat Borowicz won't be surprised if her girls race to the state championship this year. After the final relay was run and the scores added up, Coach Borowicz was surprised to see her team edge Olympian Chandra Cheesborough's Jacksonville school.

Coach Borowicz predicted the team, which included many of the state runner-up cross country team, would do very well at state. "Hollywood MacArthur might challenge us," she admitted.

Track events were bolstered by miler Michele Dunaway, who switched to the 440, April Stickler, Dawn Devane, Tammy Franklin, and Toni Johnson. The sprint medley relay was eliminated and the mile medley relay added. Lisa Beck, Wendy Bliss, and Kim Weaver ran the new 330-yard hurdles. In field events, Coach Borowicz looked to Susan Koch in the high jump and Jill Strumpf, Lynn Marnie and Dell Kelleher in the shot put and discus.

"If nobody gets hurt and everybody improves the way they're improving, they'll be state contenders."

The Tornado Track Team fled through the season with many outstanding members. Tim Downs, Brian Batten, Tom Smith, and returning letterman Matt Farmer held the lead in distance running. Creston Hooks, Sandy Johnson, and Ed Frazier were strong sprinters.

Quarter-miler Greg Rogers was the first freshman to get a varsity letter. Blaine Randall and Tom Brzezinski were potential pole vaulters. Chris Seeger, Keith Eidson, and Jim Thurston coached the teams. Coach Thurston stated, "Although we are a young team, I feel that we are only a year away from conference contenders."

The Atlantic Seaboard Swimming and Diving Championship held in February in North Carolina opened the swimming season. Tornado Tankers, competing with 83 teams from nine states and the District of Columbia, finished first overall — the boys in second place, the girls in third, and also broke four school records. Eight swimmers met qualifying times for All-American consideration.

Practicing every day in "rain, sleet, or snow," swimmers averaged 10,000 yards per day. The YMCA pool provided a change of scenery for practices when the Bobby Walker heater broke down. The team also trained at Nautilus health spa doing isokinetic exercises on mini-gyms, This year they enjoyed the use of their own weight machines. Co-captains Mike and Cathy Dean and Mark Lynch plus All-Americans Boyd Crisler, Karen Spanczak, and Jennifer Burns were standouts, even though Coach Don Prokes emphasized a "non-star" team effort. Coach Prokes, who also planned a surprise "river run" training session, summed the team up as "the most intelligent and most dedicated group of swimmers I've ever had."

Players 'Bat'tled Opponents

Combining both the varsity and jayvee teams into one this year, baseball began with practices after school.

Eleven seniors, eight juniors, and five sophomores made up the 24-member team. Projects such as a candy sale, a season ticket sale and a liquid detergent sale all helped to raise money for the team.

Howard Johnson and Ben Gresham captained the team. Coach Al Chancey stated, "This has been the best team as a group in the three years I've been here. They are hard workers and we will have an outstanding year."

'78 Was The Year Of Class

The senior class officers (FROM LEFT) Chris Hinton, Vice-President; Scott Zeiger, President; Daryl Seaton, Treasurer; and Tracey Binzel, Secretary; made the seniors' last year successful with their leadership. The senior class made their debut by entering a float for the Homecoming Parade. It consisted of a tornado, grasping a spear to tie in with the theme, "Spear the Spartans". Late hours and last minute details kept the builders busy. The towering tornado, when completed, measured sixteen feet — just a few inches taller than the traffic lights. Enthusiasm was at an all-time high when a few seniors ran across the field displaying a banner saying "Class of '78" during Tornado Tales.

Christmas time came and the students had a plant sale to raise money. Bay area nurseries came to the aid by donating plants which were sold for a total profit of $200. T-shirts, listing every senior's name in alphabetical order, were also sold by the officers.

Toward the end of the year, all awaited the traditional Grad-Night and the Junior-Senior Prom, which was to be held at the Egypt Shriners' Temple. But for the grand finale, everyone was filled with excitement when it came to graduation. It brought wonder to most meaning their future was up to whatever fate and fortune they might encounter. Many students couldn't wait to leave but others started to miss old C.H.S. even before the music died away.

Juniors began the year with apprehension over the statewide literacy tests. All juniors were required to take the test if they planned on graduating the following year.

Homecoming started off the beginning of a busy year for the junior class and advisor Robert Furmey. The hours of hard work paid off when the junior class float came in first place.

The traditional class car wash and donut sale helped bring in money for the Prom. Class dues were collected second semester.

Sophmores Elevated Spirit

The Sophomore class got into the swing of things this year, providing their own special kind of spirit and pride. Denise Lathrop says it best:

"There are a lot of things to look forward to in the next few years at C.H.S. The best is that no matter what happens to our school — even if we lost to Largo again — C.H.S. will always be the Greatest!"

Friends Eased School's Boredom

This year sophomores became involved in many activities, yet some still remained dissatisfied.

"In some things, we are treated (the same) or get to do the same things, like working on Homecoming. But like joining clubs, you can't join most like the Key and Keyettes until you are a Junior," explains Diane Cooper.

The varsity football season was a source of excitement to the sophomores. After winning nine games, most of the underclassmen were riding high on spirit.

"I liked the football games best. We had such a good record this year, and even though we lost to Largo we still have our pride and spirit," said Margaret Horvath.

This year students presented a very mature image of themselves. As one sophomore, Mark Hehr, said of teenagers: "If people would act themselves and stick to a natural way of life, everybody would improve a little more."

Sophs Lit Up Homecoming

Over the past few years, careers and education had been emphasized; as a result, most sophomores had their futures mapped out.

"I plan to go to college and major in biology and also marine biology," said Allen Foley. Greg Paulus also heads toward a science field:

"I'm going to college and be a science major, hopefully veterinary medicine."

Martha Kader is different. "I plan to go to college and major in drama so that I can be an actress."

Many of the students became involved in extra-curricular activities. Diane Cooper is an example:

"I'm swim team manager and it takes up about nine hours a week, but I like it."

Greg Paulus also stays busy.

"I'm in cross country every day, band every day and Wednesday nights, pep band and basketball games Tuesdays and Fridays."

"I spent a lot of time at ball games, although I never saw any of the game!" said Stacey Mosher.

One Down, Three To Go

Finishing their first year at Clearwater High School, the freshman class held high hopes for the future. With a class of potential athletes, freshmen spirit increased with many good turnouts at athletic activities.

The freshman class officers, Janine Eaddy, President; Renee Boivin, Vice-President; Tasia Kossivas, Secretary; and Holly Roub, Treasurer; under the direction of Mr. Robert Hassall, held meetings once a week with hopes of good attendance by representatives.

The freshmen class planned to sell "Clearwater Tornadoes" license tags in order to raise funds for school beautification projects.

HOMECOMING

School Spirit Soared In '77

Homecoming '77 was full of surprises. "Spear Spartans" was the theme and school spirit took a definite climb through the week. The Thursday night ritual of Tornado Tales was the place for Miss Susan Rice to be crowned queen. The Homecoming court consisted of 5 seniors, 3 juniors, 2 sophomores, and 1 freshman. From the senior class this year were Beth Braswell, Terry Chestnut, Glenette Herbert, Mary Lee Hynds and Susan Rice. Representing the junior class were Christine Cruder, Dawn Hamrick, and Alison West. From the sophomore class were Shawn Parker and Sandra Rice. Gay Anderson represented the freshman class.

The Tornadoettes carried out a tradition of having a hilarious skit. The Varsity Cheerleaders also took a big part in the skit with the Tornadoettes. The Homecoming Parade took place Friday afternoon. The Senior class float was the biggest, but that didn't help, the Juniors still won the competition. Friday night, the queen and her court were presented to the crowd.

The student body at C.H.S. was in the spirit to "BEAT LARGO." A pep rally was staged and groups put on skits. Students from both high schools invaded their opponents school leaving toilet paper, shredded newspaper and anything else to make the school look defeated. Not only did Clearwater get decorated, but Largo High School got the worst of the toilet papering. Truly C.H.S. students did a better job of decorating the Largo campus! Friday night was really a disappointment for the Tornado fans. Largo won the field, but in spirit Clearwater is still Number One!

Students sat in class with their eyes propped open, hearing their teachers without really listening to them. The clock read 7:15. Gaping mouths and puffy peepers showed that the students hadn't been awake long, and that if nothing prevented them, they'd be asleep again soon. The classes dragged by, and eventually the 12:15 bell rang, then kids threw open doors and tumbled into the hall. Pandemonium reigned for fifteen minutes as freshmen, sophomores, juniors, and seniors mixed in the corridors. Soon the 12:30 bell sounded, and for one more five-hour span the afternoon students had to contend with growling stomachs and class periods that crawled by until 5:30, when the prison of learning released its inmates for supper.

During spare time students excelled in many fields of sports. Skateboarding became one of the biggest fads of the year. Skateboard Park opened up and people flocked there to learn about the little board with 4 wheels. Frisbee throwing was still around and students spent many hours in the parking lot tossing the little round disc. Water sports drew people to the beaches and lakes for water skiing, sailing, swimming and scuba diving. Some students found mud, jeeps and trucks to go together and spent hours finding the fun of "4-wheeling." Although school was a big part of life it seems students found spare time for just about anything.

Paying attention in class was increasingly difficult as Fridays drew nearer. Weekend thoughts occupied the minds of even the most attentive students. The prospect of two whole days released from school gave us plenty to daydream about. Intricate details of how we'd spend them came alive in our heads. By the last class on Friday the weekend had begun and the anticipation was finally over. With more precision than ever displayed in class a wild and crazy dash was made for the door and our scheming minds sorted out exactly what we'd tell our parents about the next 48 hours. The confusion soon settled down as directions to parties and games were exchanged and strategies to wheedle later curfews got underway. With an overabundance of energy we went separate ways and threw ourselves into a multitude of activities. Time blurred past and before we knew it Sunday night had arrived and the impending reality of Monday morning faced us. The weekend was now a memory; as all good things do, it had come to an end.

Concerts Were A 'Riot'

Weekends were looked forward to as concerts increased in popularity and price. Ticket rates soared, with many performances going as high as $15.

Summer outdoor concerts had some surprising outcomes, beginning with the excellent shows of Pink Floyd and Fleetwod Mac, and ending in chaos at the Led Zeppelin concert. Fans and police clashed after the group left the Tampa Stadium stage due to a "mild downpour." The Zeppelin incident halted outdoor concerts at Tampa Stadium indefinitely.

Among the stars glittering at Bay area concert halls were Bad Company, Boston, Foghat, Kansas and the Outlaws, with Heart and Styx making their debut. Mondays were dreaded, as concert fanatics drug their red eyes and pounding heads to school.

The construction of Countryside High School was delayed because of an eagle's nest on the building site. The building of this school will eliminate double sessions at CHS and Dunedin. Meanwhile the double sessions dominated high school life. Students spent hours in the library studying and visiting before and after school. The parking lot was reconstructed in order to stop all "the dragsters" and "druggies" from hanging out. School was also used for club activities such as the senior class plant sale and the Interact Crawl-a-thon. Learning to drive was one of the real beneficial challenges of school. Students met friends in the halls, cafeteria, library and in the parking lots at all hours of the day for reasons ranging from getting assignments to gossip or a quick smoke. School was the place for all things at all times.

DANCES

Dances Attracted Couples

"Steppin out," dancing and partying on December 23. This was all a part of the annual P.A.K. Silverbell Christmas Formal held at the Sheraton Sand Key Hotel. For many girls this was their chance to ask the person they have had their eye on or their steady boyfriend, while members of P.A.K. were busy picking up corsages or taking a nap for the big night out.

As the band, Maddancer, began to play, many of the couples began to dance, while others decided to wait for a crowd to form and then secretly slipped into the mass. By the end of the dance, many had deserted their dates, found new ones for the next dance or found a party to keep the night life rolling.

Dancers Stepped Out

Clearwater Mall was invaded in February by the ladies and their specially chosen dates. The area between Burdines and Gayfers was opened up to the Y-teens and their friends who came to dance to the noise of Seabo.

Ballots were passed out during the dance so participants could vote for their choice of Sweetheart Queen. After much dancing and partying everyone anticipated the crowning of the queen, who was Lynn McKenna. She and her escort Burk Fishburn were joined on the dance floor by the rest of the court as they danced to the selected song "If." Tired dancers wandered up and down the closed mall eating, window shopping, and roaming the dark halls.

Interns Invaded Careers

Seniors left the schools this year to earn credits in the relatively new internship program. By becoming an intern they were able to learn of their career interest on a first hand basis.

Students that have carried dreams of being lawyers, doctors, journalists, or photographers most of their lives now had the opportunity to actually observe and participate in the field of their choice.

Graduates Escaped Early

Graduation came mid-year in '78 to 145 seniors with only 98 of those graduating actually participating in the ceremony. Wearing grey caps and gowns, the seniors received their diplomas with mixed emotions knowing that they would leave the security of the school's routine and experiencing doubts of their new independence.

Running the short ceremony was Assistant Principal Larry Goodbread. Greg Mathis, Jeff Tong, and Scarlett Brown encouraged the graduates to seek out new opportunities and strive to attain their goals.

Interact Worked With A Green Thumb

Interact began the year with a record membership of 110. "Everyone was excited, they really wanted to do something," said George McKiethen, club advisor.

The club held a "crawl-a-thon" around the C.H.S. track. Participants got pledges for each half-lap they crawled. Jim King tried so hard crawling the 15 laps, he finished in the hospital. Sheli Johnston crawled the longest for the girls, seven laps. Money collected was donated to UPARC and the American Cancer Society.

In December, the members gathered for a formal banquet at Chief Charley's. Tampa Bay Rowdie Joe Fink was the guest speaker.

Interact continued their tradition of tending a section of the school's front yard. They also donated yard equipment.

Because of the problems with the gymnasium floor, the annual Interact-Key Club basketball game had to be postponed until late January. The club also planned a basketball game with the 98 Rock disc jocks for February. Once a month, club members went on occupational field trips. The club visited a money bank, blood bank, and a lawyer's office. Every Wednesday, two members went to a luncheon-meeting of Rotary Club, Interact sponsor.

Bronze Cross Awarded To Cadet

The Legion of Valor Bronze Cross for Achievement was presented to Cadet Captain Barry Roeper during a special football halftime ceremony in November. The Bronze Cross is the highest national award for a MCJROTC cadet; only one is awarded annually among the 52 schools competing.

Contributing to school spirit, the unit marched in the Homecoming parade in October. The unit also held their annual "Toys for Tots" drive.

Helicopter orientation flights were held for the cadets. The basic training flights started on C.H.S.'s athletic field but moved to Clearwater Air Park when neighbors complained.

In local rifle range competition the MCJROTC unit placed sixth out of the 12 schools competing. The unit hoped for better national scores.

On November 10 the unit helped celebrate the Marine Corps 203rd birthday with a huge cake and dress uniform ceremony.

I.T.S. Staged Orwell's 1984

The primed voices projected across the auditorium as the performers practiced their lines. George Orwell's portrayal of a terrible time in the future, "1984," was produced by the International Thespian Society for their fall play.

Renee Smith, a member of the cast, said, "I think we did a fantastic job on the play. Everyone worked well together."

The Drama Club also performed the "Acting Lesson" which received "good" ratings in competition. "We worked hard for our ratings; we deserved them," commented Louise Webster, the drama club secretary.

Several Thespians attended a weekend workshop at the University of Miami in early March. Linda Serafini and Chris Doyle participated in the state finals there.

Club Explored Classical Cultures

The Junior Classical League dug into classical cultures. During February the club attended the Junior Classical League District 6 Forum.

Students competed in such topics as Latin and Grammar, Customs and Costumes, and Pentathalon, reading comprehension.

The club planned a banquet at the end of the year. Anne Magee sponsored the club.

Drafters Drew Lots

Drafters mapped the Clearwater High School building for new students, "so they can find their way around campus; after all it's a big school," said Delmas Greene, advisor to the club, now in his second year. The club built scale models of houses. They also planned to sponsor a wheelchair basketball game in April, and a party at the end of the school year.

Clubbers Sponsored Car Bash

Focusing on civic activities, the Key Club collected more than 600 cans of food from Clearwater students during December. These cans were distributed to needy families. Twenty members also took underprivileged children to Camp Seoule for a day.

Clearwater High got a "face-lift" with the new marquee purchased by the Key Club.

Each week the members from the Key Club attended the luncheon meetings of Kiwanis, their sponsors.

To finance their expenses the Key Club published and sold their annual calendar. Girls were chosen for the calendar by parading one by one into the large conference room filled with wide-eyed Key Clubbers. Two girls were chosen per month.

"It was the best calendar yet," said Brad Badger, president of the club.

Supporting school spirit, the Key Club made a homecoming float and had a "car bash" before the Clearwater-Largo game.

Ivan Werkhiser was advisor to the '78 Key Club.

YFU Hosted Exchange Students

Welcoming foreign students with a smile is Youth for Understanding, a club devoted to the understanding of youth from different countries. Willis Butts, through his fascination with foreign languages and countries has led to his sponsorship of YFU. The members themselves are all friendly, adventurous kids to welcome visiting students to Clearwater.

No students came to Clearwater with the YFU exchange program this year, but that didn't stop the club from being active. A Christmas party for all the YFU clubs in Pinellas County encouraged the sharing of project ideas and fellowship. The club brought yearbooks for exchange students so that they might have a pictorial memory of their stay in Clearwater. A trip to Disney World finished off their agenda with a wild fun time. YFU welcomes all students with a warm handshake and friendly assistance.

Clearlight Looked Beyond Campus

Clearlight expanded its coverage beyond campus this year by covering such controversial issues as stress, rape, and the Ku Klux Klan, and doing it in greater depth.

"We include in every issue off-campus news that's important to students," said Vanessa Orlando, editor of the nationally recognized paper of Clearwater High.

Clearlight published 10 issues, and enlarged their Christmas issue to 12 pages, for the first time in three years. They consulted with professional journalists from Modern Media Institute (MMI) before each issue.

Staffers won scholarships to MMI in graphic arts, photography, news writing and advertising.

The staff tried to package in-depth features in "double-truck" layouts with extra emphasis gained through graphics.

Advisor Shirley Broad, was invited to speak at the Southern Interscholastic Press Association, (SIPA) convention at the University of South Carolina in March. She also had an advertising article published in Scholastic Editor Magazine.

Clearlight continued its winning streak, gathering awards in the Sigma Delta Xi, Clearwater Sun, Florida Scholastic Press Association, SIPA, and Columbia Scholastic Press Association competitions.

Tornadoettes Fired Up Fans

With chorus-line routines and synchronized moves the Tornadoettes entertained during halftime. Under the leadership of captains Susan Haygood and Barbara Mariani the Tornadoettes competed successfully at their summer camp workshop in July. The girls received first place for their high kick routine. The grueling practices which began during the summer continued into second semester, making the Tornadoettes a precision unit. The Tornadoettes decorated with festive balloons and streamers.

Penny Collins served as the new sponsor who whipped a bunch of talented individuals into the flowing machine of the Tornadoettes. Several donut sales and car washes helped finance new uniforms and equipment.

Wrestlerettes Lifted Team Morale

The Wrestlerettes were involved in a new undercover activity which operated under the name "Secret Sis." The program involved the mysterious penning of spirit notes to the wrestlers with candy attached. The squad had 10 girls to cheer the wrestlers on. To help pay for their new uniforms and other goodies they had garage and donut sales which netted over $100.

Megaphone Men Marveled Mobs

The chief cheerleaders this year were Leah Englehardt and Leigh Tanney, acting as co-captains of the ten-member squad. Also assisting were two new megaphone men to lead the chants. The newcomers were Tom Brzezinski and Ray Nugent. "They helped at lots of games and came out for a few practices," said Leigh Tanney.

Inflation deflated the footballs the cheerleaders used to throw to the fans. To raise money to buy new pom poms, the cheerleaders sold donuts and ads for stadium cushions which they gave away at basketball games.

Varsity Rated SUPERIOR At Camp

The varsity cheerleaders took the Grand Champion Award at the ASCC Cheerleading Camp last July at Gainesville. Their stay entailed four days of practice with competition at night. "We were constantly practicing," recalled Leigh Tanney, co-captain of the group. With superior ratings in the finals, the varsity cheerleaders took the highest award given in the state, "Grand Champion."

JV Cheered Team To Victory

Jayvee cheerleaders gained experience for next year's varsity squad by cheering at all jayvee football and basketball games. Special events such as the jayvee Christmas tournament and cheering along with the varsity during the Northeast football game also bolstered their confidence.

Captain Stephanie Einhaus and co-captain Sandra Rice led the 77-78 jayvee cheering squad, before crowds loud in victory and quiet in defeat. To pay for new pom poms, the girls and the jayvee football team held a car wash and sold spirit ribbons.

Frosh Flashed Smiles

Eight Freshman girls this year, under the sponsorship of Pauline Hess, cheered the freshman team to victory.

The girls were "an excellent group. Full of school spirit and a lot of enthusiasm." said Mrs. Hess. Co-captains were Diane Blaney and Missy Webb.

The girls all agreed that Mrs. Hess "had made us a closer group."

The cheerleaders were not allowed to do any fund raising so new uniforms were not a part of the '78 season.

Usherettes Held Rummage Sale

Among the first to school on Friday mornings, the Usherettes decorated Victory Hall to promote school spirit. Raising money for new jackets wasn't hard for the spirited group. They held a garage and bake sale and sold spirit buttons with the slogan "This is the year of the Tornadoes." Pot-Luck dinners before the games were a part of the fun. New for 77-78 were advisor Mrs. Marion Lowrie and jackets the girls made themselves.

Debaters Spoke State Wide

"This was our year of rebuilding," said Andy Anderson, advisor to the National Forensic League. "Out of 30 members 25 people were new." Members traveled from Tallahassee where they attended the Senate and House chambers, to Atlanta in February. In Atlanta the students competed in oratory and "extemp" speeches.

The club held three car washes to raise money for their trips.

FCA For Prayed Successful Year

"You don't have to go, you want to belong to the fellowship. All you have to do is be athletically oriented." Coach Nicely and Coach John Tsacrios brought the national club for high school, college and pro tems to Clearwater. The non-denominational meetings at the YMCA had a steady turnout of 60-70 students. Films about athletes, Bible verses, personal testimonies and a talk about sex by a priest had all appeared on the agenda. Several athletes visited neighboring elementary schools to answer questions and play games with the eager kids. FCA sponsored a weekend at Moon Lake. The 3 day retreat was full of fun and fellowship.

DECA Looked Into The Business World

DECA, a club devoted to teaching students the tricks of the retail trade, had two CHS chapters, sponsored by Bob Davis and Eleanor Burger. Members attended an officers training conference for three days in November in Orlando. A rally in October was the highlight for the DECA members. A January picnic gave them a chance to celebrate the election victory of Lynne Mathews as district president. Sponsoring members in a 28-hour dance-a-thon, the club joined the drive against Muscular Dystrophy.

DECA members were making sales all over the place from Countryside Mall to Seminole Lanes. Jobs varied from John Raleigh's boat-keeping service to Kent Mich's security systems.

Clubs Exchanged Traditions

Twelve students from Marburg, Germany visited Clearwater students in April. Sponsored by the School Exchange Service program in the German Club, the visitors learned American customs and saw the tourist sights at Disney World. In turn, students from C.H.S. planned to visit Marburg in the summer.

Clubbers once again sold gummi bears in October. During December the club decorated C.H.S. trees between the malls, and had a pretzel making party. They also planned a bratworst roast.

"We really did a lot of things this year. It was fun," said Kit Griffith, a member of the club.

Leo Got A Fired Up Start

The Leo Club in conjunction with the Lions Club, their sponsor, raised money to donate to the eye bank.

The civic club visited Bruce Manor Nursing Club on Halloween and Christmas time to help lift their holiday spirits.

To finance their projects the club held a car wash in November.

Club Created Christmas Cards

Several new languages have been added to CHS's vocabulary through the Computer Club. Basic Fortran and Dap-16 have kept the computer operators' minds whirrying in strange combinations of letters and numbers. Under the guidance of Jim McClelland and Ron Royal the club opened up a new computer terminal from the Science Center. The new unit enabled two students to work on their programs at a time. The 20-member club sold Christmas "card" printouts of Reindeer and snowmen from a program developed by Jim Haines. A computer dating program was envisioned.

Several field trips to the Science Center and General Telephone introduced the clubbers to the practical use of computers. The coaching staff benefited from filing of baseball and football statistics on the computers. Now accurate information on players and games can be recalled quickly. "We tried to improve the equipment of C.H.S. this year," said Brayn Murren, president of the club.

FBLA Led Candy Sales

Climaxing the FBLA '78 year was their winning of the district FBLA competition. The winning students planned to go to Orlando in June for state competition and from there to San Francisco for Nationals, they hoped.

The club held their annual employee-employer banquet in May. "This is where the employee treats the employer to dinner," said Clegg Miller, advisor to the Club.

The club sponsored the March of Dimes drive for C.H.S.

CHO Taught Medical Skills

CHO helped dozens of students find jobs in local hospitals and nursing homes. Students began with a basic 12-week nursing course taught by Diane Hernan, R.N. Mrs. Hernan also served as advisor to the club. "It's a basic course you need whether you're going to be a doctor, nurse or anything else in the medical field," said Mrs. Hernan.

To raise money for their annual employer-employee banquet, the club sold donuts and candy.

"CHO showed me that it takes much dedication and devotion to go into the medical field," said Glynette Herbert, a member of the club.

Council Supervised Skits

"We did a lot of things this year," stated Student Council president Stephanie Becker. The infamous Tornado Tales was organized by the student council. The spirit-filled organization had a pep rally to fire up student interest for the big Largo game. The council had two meetings a month to keep all the representatives and students informed. A proposed Spring Dance was planned to step up the C.H.S. social pace.

Nursing Home Keyettes Decorated

The Keyettes donated their time to the Clearwater community. At Christmas, the club made decorations for Bruce Manor Nursing Home and decorated the Christmas tree in the lobby of C.H.S.

As another contribution to the community and to the school spirit of C.H.S., the Keyettes made a Homecoming float that won third prize.

The club raised money for their activities through various projects: selling spirit ribbons, Love-o-grams during February and Halloween lollipops in October. With this money the Keyettes planned a picnic and tubing party with the Key Club. The club was headed by president Paula Efimetz, vice-president Beth Whittier, and sponsors Mary Anne Saclarides and Judy Hartl.

Skiers Slalomed Through The Year

Skiers gathered on weekends to flaunt stunts.

"It was a party every time we went out," said Ed Bryan, a member of the club. The club revived after a few years dormancy, collected two-dollar dues to pay for gasoline. Boats were supplied by Dan McMullen and Kurt Henderson. Keith Eidson, drivers education teacher, insisted that all boat drivers learn the rules of the road.

Fathoms Found Talent In Depth

Fathoms is Clearwater High School's literary magazine made by the students. The staff was made up of twenty-five members chosen from applicants in February. "I have a lot of ideas for this year's magazine," said Julie Olson, the 1978 editor. Fathoms was planned to go on sale in May. Shirley Broad was advisor to the Fathoms.

Staff Faced Midnight Deadlines

The presses cranked out another Aqua Clara this year, but this one had quite a few changes. One of the biggest innovations was ads in color. Also, the ads were integrated all through the book instead of in a separate section in the back. Given more emphasis were graphics and copy. When one walked into the "pub" as the yearbook office is called, staffers could be seen pasting up camera-ready headlines, another innovation for "78." Names on the yearbook covers serve to personalize the book. And a new record was set: The Aqua Clara staff made two deadlines in a row.

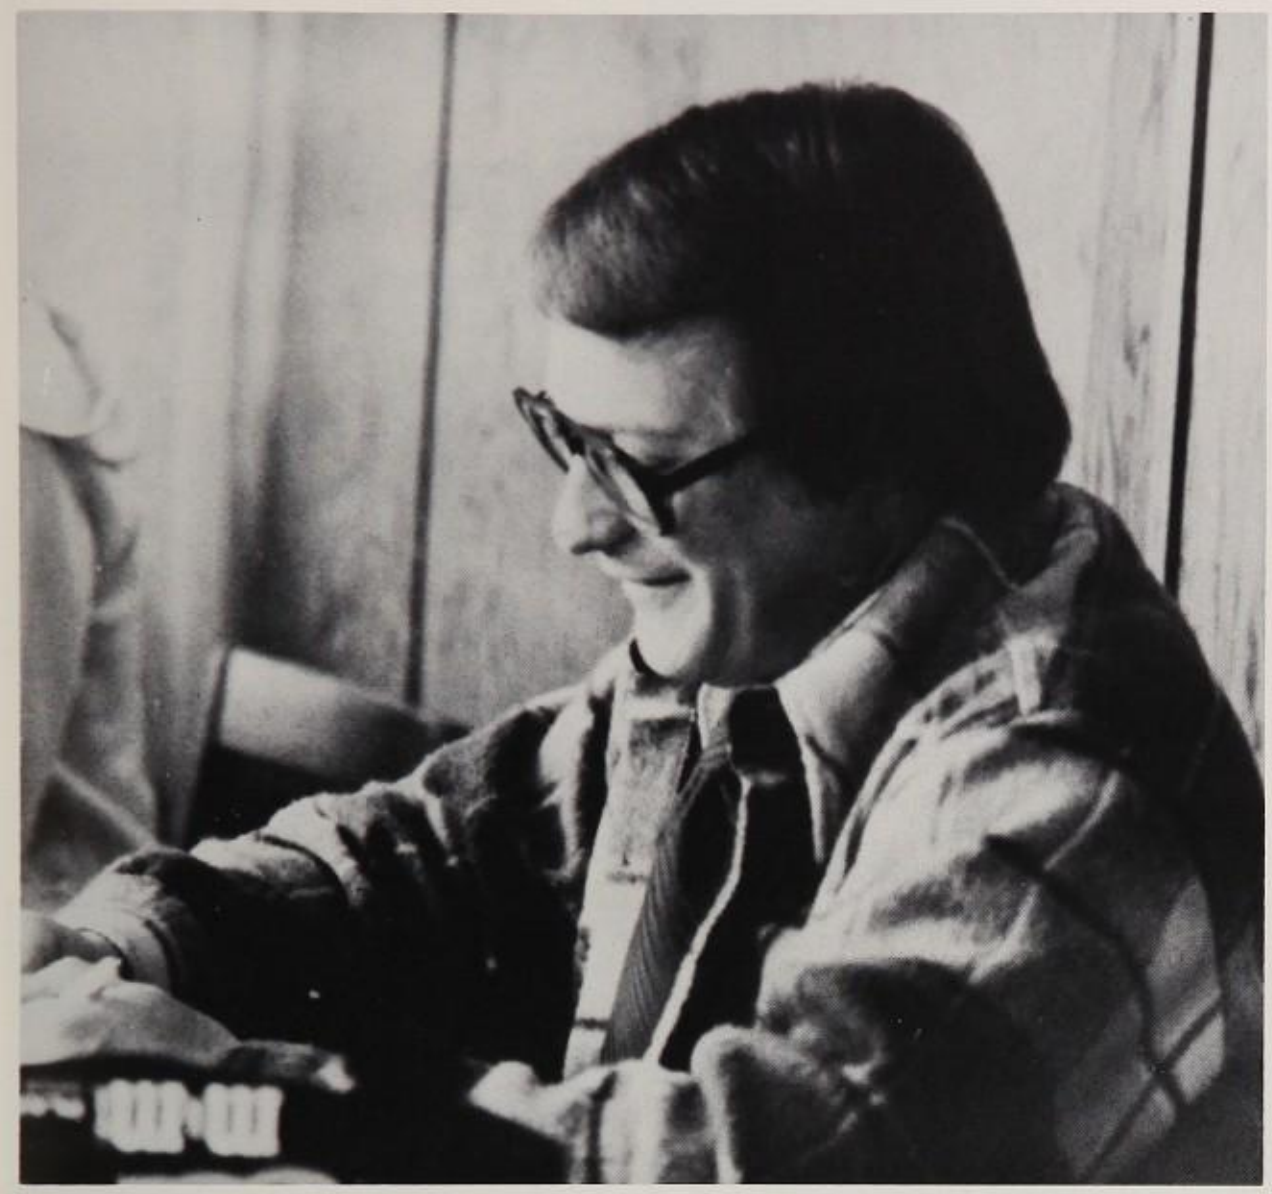
Rotoract Climaxed With M&M Sale



ROTORACT, offshoot from Interact, began its first year at C.H.S. under the sponsorship of George McKeithen.

The 25-girl club's main project was cleaning and painting for the girls bathroom in the stadium.

"I'd never been in there," said Mr. McKeithen, "but the girls said it was awful."

To finance this project the club peddled M&Ms during December and January.

Band Ignited Football Games

For the 8th consecutive year, the Clearwater High Marching Band won superior ratings in the Florida Bandmaster's Association competition. The marching band was made up of the concert band and the 10th grade band. "We practiced and practiced to get such high ratings," said Lori Firehammer. Included in the instrumental music program were a 9th grade band and a stage band.

Besides playing at halftime at football games, the bands performed in four concerts and two parades: an annual Christmas concert, a thank-you concert after tag-day in February, and Fun 'n' Sun parade in March. "I feel that this year's band has been a great success," said Barbara Hoopes, a member of the band.

AV Students Helped The Show Run Smooth

An AV assistant is a strange breed who takes pleasure in transporting various media equipment. Projectors, tape recorders, even books, are delivered to the rooms. Without the assistants the AV equipment would be hard to come by. With minds turned to the working of their equipment they often made repairs on equipment. AV assistants taped track, wrestling, and diving. Mrs. Merriam and Mrs. Noah kept the crew jumping and they kept the gear running.

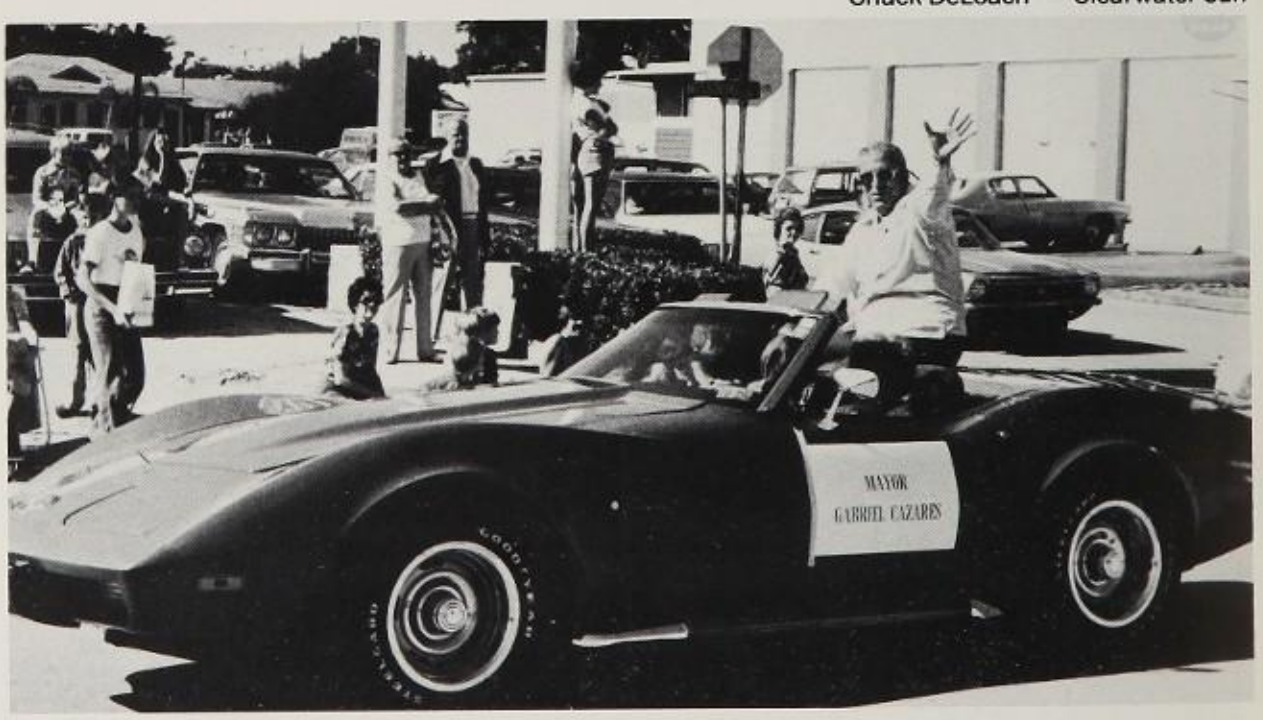
Bucs Won !!

Even though the Tampa Bay Buccanneers had trouble beating a team, we all thought they would beat something else — the Chicago loss record. The Bucs fell a mere three games short of the number of consecutive losses of a professional team. The Tampa team's record was 0-26 before they overcame their first opponent, New Orleans. Eight thousand ecstatic fans greeted the football players and staff as they arrived at Tampa International Airport and Buc's headquarters, One Buccanneer Place. They went on to beat the Cincinnati Bengals in their final game of the season.

"The Day of the Bucs" became the team's theme song as the lyrics displayed much optimism, stating they were destined for Superbowl '79.



(TOP) Bucs players prepare for a jubilant celebration. (BOTTOM) Mayor Gabriel Cazares parades down Missouri Avenue.

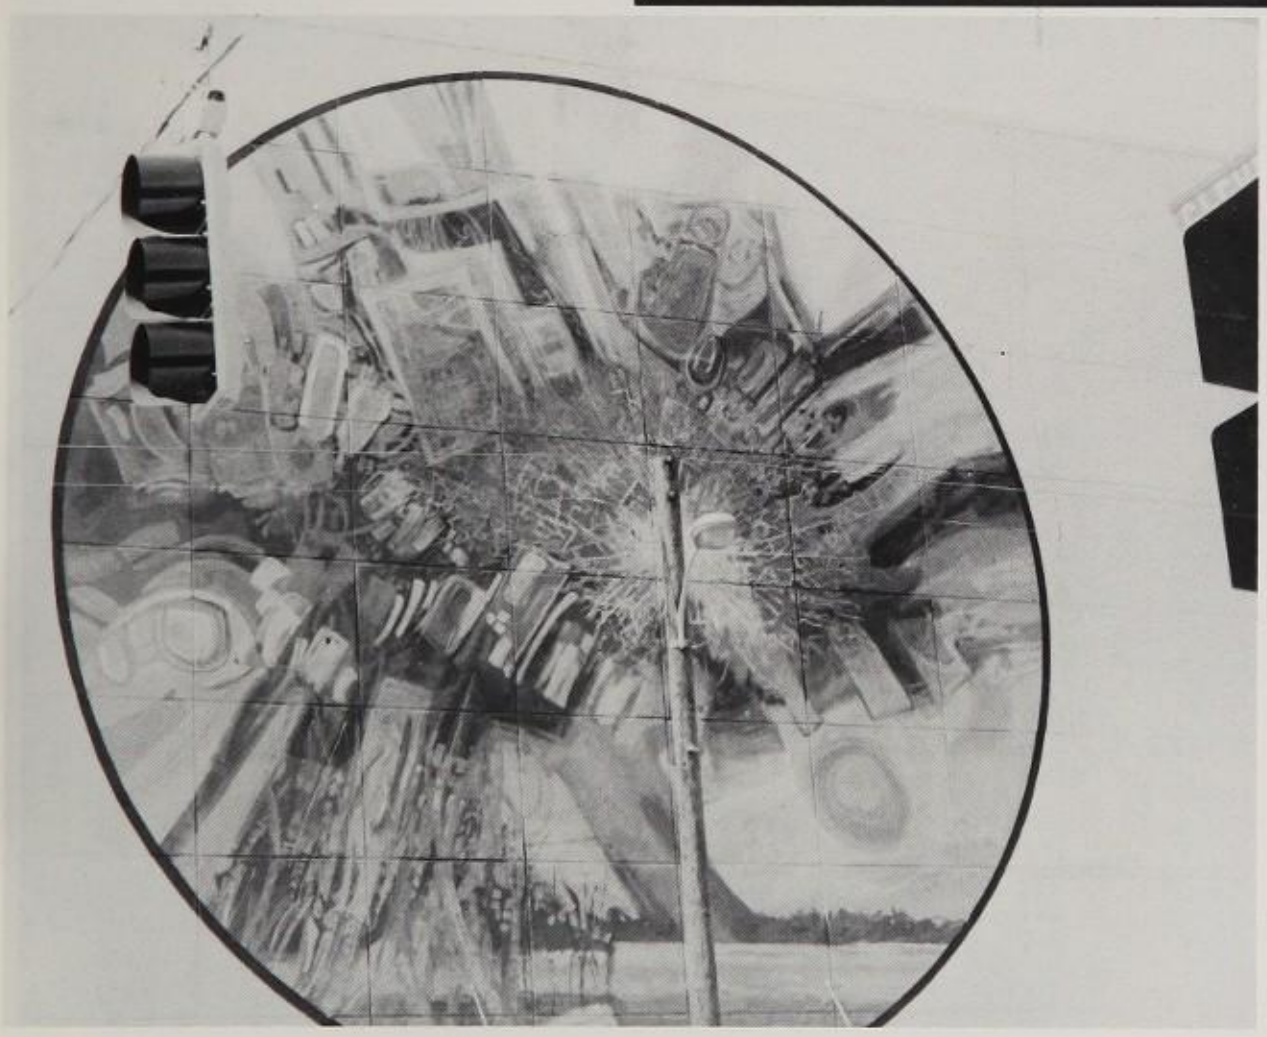
Clearwater Plotted Cultural Expansion

As the dilemma over the proposed civic center continued to broil, a new Clearwater Performing Arts Center project was put on the front burner. Land adjacent to the Kapok Tree Inn was donated to the City of Clearwater by the Baumgardner family.

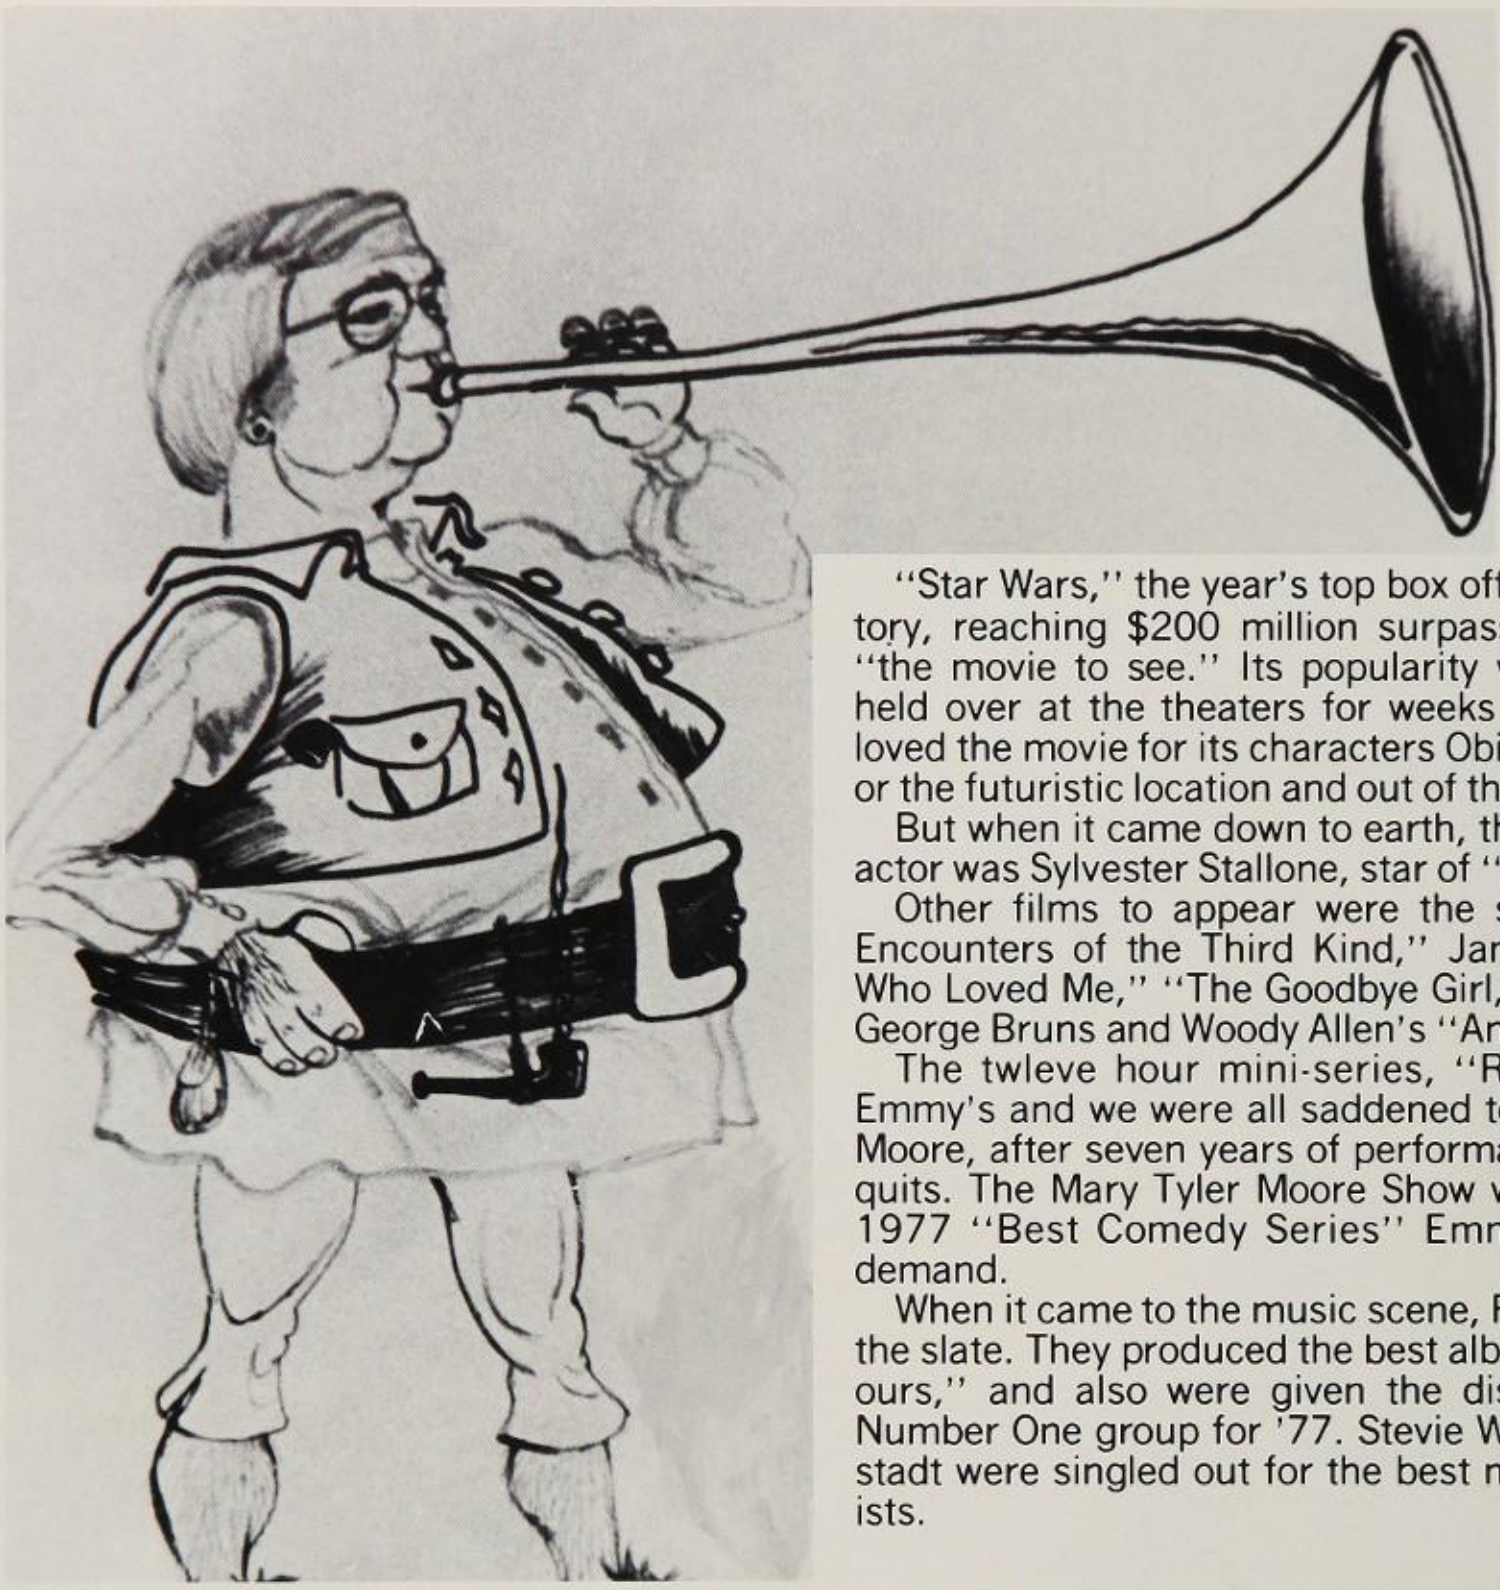
Beginning in the summer of '78, Caladesi Island will be invaded by scores of sun worshippers when a ferry connects this once-deserted island to the Dunedin mainland.

Palm Harbor, the Sleepy Hollow of Pinellas County, became the site for burning crosses and white hoods as the KKK invaded the sunbelt, when they bought 6½ acres from a resident for a state headquarters.

With an unending influx of people, progress and businesses glutting Clearwater, it was news for something to leave. After 20 years of broadcasting Varsity football, WTAN radio cut their cords to the box office in a tiff with school officials. They hoped for a resumption in 1978-79.



(TOP RIGHT) Football games were no longer broadcast by WTAN. (ABOVE) A new mural was added to downtown Clearwater on the corner of Cleveland and Garden Streets. (RIGHT) Mitch McFredrick, a CHS junior, moved to Australia to train for professional tennis.



"Star Wars," the year's top box office picture in U.S. history, reaching $200 million surpassing "Jaws," became "the movie to see." Its popularity was astounding being held over at the theaters for weeks on end. Many people loved the movie for its characters Obi-Wan Kenobi or R2D2, or the futuristic location and out of the ordinary action.

But when it came down to earth, the number-one human actor was Sylvester Stallone, star of "Rocky."

Other films to appear were the science fiction "Close Encounters of the Third Kind," James Bond's "The Spy Who Loved Me," "The Goodbye Girl," "Oh, God!" starring George Bruns and Woody Allen's "Annie Hall."

The twleve hour mini-series, "Roots," received nine Emmy's and we were all saddened to hear that Mary Tyler Moore, after seven years of performance, decided to call it quits. The Mary Tyler Moore Show was also bestowed the 1977 "Best Comedy Series" Emmy Award by popular demand.

When it came to the music scene, Fleetwood Mac cleaned the slate. They produced the best album of the year, "Rumours," and also were given the distinction of being the Number One group for '77. Stevie Wonder and Linda Ronstadt were singled out for the best male and female vocalists.

In The Mideast Peace Hopes Arose

We all thought history was in the making when in November '77, Egyptian President Anwar Sadat traveled to Jerusalem to discuss peace in the Middle East with Israeli Prime Minister Menchem Begin. Sadat demanded windrawal from Egyptian territories, a deal which the Israeli's greeted with coolness that lowered the initial high hope. However, negotiations were continued and Sadat was named as TIME's "Man of the Year."

Other negotiations were big news too. Ratification of the Panama Canal Treaty would mean that by the year 2000, the Panamanians would assume complete control, provided the United States was guaranteed priority passage during emergencies. Jacqueline Onassis compromised with the daughter of her late husband, the shipping magnate Aristotle Onassis, for $20 million.

Although the Alaskan Pipeline was completed, winter '78 kept many northerners shivering. Many regions were forced into states of emergency as coal miners called a nationwide strike that went on for months.

The space age seemed near as many projects went underway. The Enterprise space shuttle came closer to reality as test flights were made. Minority representation in space was achieved when NASA chose women and blacks for their next flight into the future. In New York, the French SST Concorde began flights on a trial basis.

As White House reporters turned over new stones, Budget Director Bert Lance was implicated in improper actions with a Georgia bank and resigned in September.

As an activist against homosexuality, singer Anita Bryant campaigned against anti-discrimination laws in Miami. Following her drive, Mrs. Bryant recorded a song entitled "There's Nothing Like the Love Between a Woman and a Man."

Although peace seemed at hand to most Americans, little brushfire wars raged in Ethiopia, Rhodesia, Beirut, and — even yet — Southeast Asia.

Leon Spinks didn't want his two front teeth for Christmas — he craved something much more. Spinks engaged Mohammed Ali in a fight that went to a split decision. Spinks dethroned Ali for Heavyweight Champion of the world. In another overthrow, Argentina's Guillermo Vilas smashed Jimmy Connors in the U.S. Open at Forest Hills.

Superbowl '77 was held in the Superdome in New Orleans, where Denver was confronted by Dallas. The victor was Dallas, 27 to 10. Texas was also the home for the Heisman Trophy winner, Longhorn Earl Campbell.

Reggie Jackson, of the New York Yankees, set a homerun record during the 1977 World Series by hitting three homers in one game. Females made the sports news too. Janet Guthrie became the first woman to compete in the Indianapolis 500-mile auto race. Tracey Austin was the youngest tennis player ever to make it to Wimbledon, and showed promise to be another Chris Evert.

Split-Ups Surprised Spectators

1977-78 saw many celebrities, politicians, and athletes split their usual scene for a different life. A major issue in the Tampa Bay area was the resignation of Rowdies Coach Eddie Fermani. The ex-coach relocated in New York with the Cosmos. Also in sports "Broadway Joe" Namath took leave from the New York Jets and tried it with the Rams for a while until announcing he'd rest his troubled knees for good celebrities in the country. The Buffalo Bills saw the last of O. J. Simpson as he went shopping for a new ball club.

Marital splits seemed to be on the upsurge as well known figures divorced or separated. Margaret left Canadian Prime Minister Pierre Trudeau and Alabama's George and Cornelia Wallace brought their marriage to a stormy halt.

TV superstar and sex symbol Farrah Fawcett-Majors tossed the series "Charlie's Angels" aside for a more diversified career and benefits. Newcomer Cheryl Ladd took her place as the third "angel."

Death Struck

United Press International compiled a list of the top ten stories in 1977 and not surprisingly the number two story of the year was the death of Elvis Presley, the King of Rock. Elvis was a showy performer, actor, and singer. Some of his hits were "Houndog," "Blue Suede Shoes," and "Heartbreak Hotel." The "King" died at the age of 42 in Memphis.

Other misfortunes were the deaths of Bing Crosby, opera star Maria Callas, and comedian Groucho Marx. We also lost the entertainment of the slapstick tramp, Charlie Chaplin, Peter Finch, and Joan Crawford. And we all wondered what the new year would bring without Guy Lombardo to help celebrate with his 'Auld Lang Syne.'

During early '78, the nation's political circles grieved when one-time Vice-President and Minnesota Senator Hubert Humphrey's death was announced. His wife, Muriel, was appointed senator for the remainder of his term and indicated she might run for reelection. The media also informed us of the loss of the members of the Evanston University basketball team and three players of the Lynyrd Skynyrd Band (see page 6) when the planes both groups were traveling in crashed. 1977 was noted as the worst year for air crashes in 20 years.

It was a rough year on the nation's college campuses. Besides the Evanston disaster, college students were threatened when a deranged murderer entered the Chi Omega sorority house at Florida State University brutally killing two young women and injuring three others.

Terror also rampaged through New York City when a sniper, identifying himself as "Son of Sam," murdered six persons and wounded seven over a period of one year.

FASHION

Denims Didn't Fade Away

The way one could visually see a change in the times was by dress. Classics and fads overwhelmed students as they dressed to please themselves. Peasant skirts, ruffled shirts, and stick pins brought back from yesteryear set a nostalgic mood. Three piece suits, cowl-neck sweaters, gauchos, and painter paints seemed to invade the Levi domain. However, T-shirts with their unusual slogans usually kept boys and girls in their jeans. The biggest thing to hit was boots whether worn tucked into pants or under a dress. Nightlife apparel was also left up to the individual's taste as almost anything went. Regardless of the fact that prices had risen people paid to look nice.

A last memory of '78 will be the news of the retiring Dean of Girls, Pat Myers. After 29 years of Clearwater High she decided it was time to leave. She started working at the old C.H.S. in 1949 and then moved to the new school in 1954 where she became the first Dean of Girls. Her job brought her into contact at one time or another with every girl in school. One of the new challenges for this year was the reinforced dress code. With the big variety in clothing she had to use her discretion in order to enforce the Student Code of Conduct.

The Final Edition

Many people have gone through Clearwater High School 'to make their mark.' For some, this only meant scratching their name in a textbook, only to be seen by those few assigned to it. But the AQUA CLARA staff chose to leave their mark in a much larger book — a much larger enterprise.

Approximately 22 naive journalism students submitted themselves to a most bizarre experience and a stand-up-for-your-sanity year. We encountered many foulups — whether it be a missing photographer, lost copy, or finding out we had no more Formatt type or photographic paper left, and during deadline.

Though there were photographic backfires, our photogs united during deadline. Jim Haines, head photographer, helped us with his special effects. Julie Olson, Ed Bryan, and Cindy Cole should also be commended for their aid 'to the cause.' We would like to thank the CLEARLIGHT staff for their Formatt type, free ads and photog Blaire Hornbuckle for his special help to us when we needed it. A special thanks is due for Steve Girard who helped us make contact prints, Jim Murray Camera Store, Clearwater Sun photog Chuck DeLoach, Bryn-Alan Studios, especially Paul Baker and Ed Beatty, for their continuous supply of film and paper. Thanks also goes to Ron Binns of Taylor Publishing Company for guiding our decisions.

We all dispised selling ads. We were fortunate to have an ad manager who promoted sales (even though many were still under our quota). Kit Griffith can be thanked for financing the annual with the largest budget in the state of Florida. Special thanks to our biggest advertiser, Mr. Charlie Harris.

As I began this note, it became very hard for me to write in first person. Producing a yearbook is a joint effort. We were like a family — very often we toiled in the "pub" over 12 hours in one day, and many weekends. Many years from now I will forget what classes I had 2nd and 4th period — but I will always remember what I had 6th.

Now that I am writing in first person, I personally would like to thank two very exceptional people. First Leigh Tanney for her very versatile help and our advisor (as Steve Martin would say), the wild and crazy Tom Pierce for sacrificing his spare time.

Finally, I hope you love my — our — your book. We think you will.

AQUA CLARA has been consistent winner of first place ratings from Florida Scholastic Press Association, National Scholastic Press Association, and Southern Interscholastic Press Association.

AQUA CLARA '78 continued the tradition of student production by expanding the effort in graphics to include more student typeset headlines and ad matter. The headlines were set in Formatt's "Diplomat Bold" with "Nighttime" type for an accent face. Body type and cutlines were company-set in News Gothic. Photography once again was entirely student shot and processed with the exception of class portraits and color processing. The book was printed by Taylor Publishing Company on 80-pound enamel paper.
